Red Tried To Get Escaped Flier Back Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Wednesday ordered the expulsion of a Russian Embassy employe who tried to get an escaped Red air force flier to go back home.

The State Department acted at the very moment the employe, unaware he was being ousted, was telling newsmen he had done no wrong.

Gennadi F. Mashkantsev, who came here from Russia six months ago, told reporters who had asked to see him that all he did was act as mailman between Peter Pirogov and Anatole Barzov.

Pirogov and Barzov flew from the Ukraine to Linz, Austria, in October 1948 and then came to the United States. Barzov got homesick and returned to Russia in 1949. He is reported to have been shot.

Pirogov is a construction worker in Fairfax County, Va., across the Potomac River from Washington. It was there Mashkantsev visited him March 11 and delivered a letter purported to be from Barzov and suggesting he return home.

'Forgery'

Pirogov told reporters that Barzov was dead and "the letter is a forgery."

Wednesday, Mashkantsev said: "How could Barzov be dead? He lives with his family in the Altay District of southern Siberia. The letter is genuine."

Reporters suggested that the Russians could prove Barzov had written the letter if they could produce him.

Mashkantsev said that was "a possibility." His boss, Soviet consular chief Fedor F. Solomatin, who shared the interview at the embassy, said a news conference with Barzov might be arranged in Russia. He said he would check with Moscow.

The State Department called in Sergei R. Striganov, counselor of the Soviet Embassy, to give him the word on Mashkantsev. The note handed Striganov said:

"The Department of State informs the Embassy of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics that the government of the United States has ascertained that Gennadi F. Mashkantzev, an employe of the Embassy of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, has engaged in highly improper activities.

"Mashkantsev's continued presence in the United States is no longer considered acceptable and the embassy is requested to arrange for his immediate departure."

A State Department statement, made public along with the note, declared Mashkantsev improperly tried to induce "the return to the Soviet Union of persons who have sought asylum in the United States."

No details were given as to possible other cases. Mashkantsev himself said he might have delivered personal letters like the Barzov one, but he rejected any notion that he personally tried to pressure anybody.

CROSS BURNS . . . Carpenter (right), his wife and police watch flames.

Cross Burned At Ex-Official's Home

By BILL HINEL
Beatrice Bureau

BEATRICE, Neb. — For the second time within a week, vandals have struck at the home of former Gage County Treasurer Claude C. Carpenter.

Seeing a light glow outside their house about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, the Carpenter family found a six-foot high cross burning in their driveway. Police gathered the crude two by four pieces of the cross for evidence after firemen extinguished the blaze.

Police officers said the cross had been wrapped with kerosene-soaked rags and ignited by someone who gained access to the property from an alley.

Last Saturday night a large paving brick was thrown through a bedroom window of the Carpenter home, narrowly missing Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter, policemen said.

Authorities indicated they believed both incidents, following the conviction of the former county treasurer of embezzling public funds, were the work of youths. Carpenter was fined and placed on probation.

AFL-CIO Rebuffs Pleas By Teamsters Officials

. . . George Meany Lays Down Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—The AFL-CIO Wednesday rebuffed Teamsters Union pleas for special treatment in scheduled ouster proceedings based on corruption charges against the union and its president, Dave Beck.

George Meany, president of the 15 million member federation, said AFL-CIO ethical practice standards will be enforced impartially against all affiliated unions "big and small," including the Teamsters with 1,350,000 members.

The federation's charges against Beck and his union, largest single AFL-CIO affiliate, are based on Beck's refusal, under the Fifth Amendment, to tell Senate rackets probers about his admitted personal use of large sums of teamsters union funds. Beck said—outside the Senate hearings—that this money was repaid.

Court charges against other high teamsters officers also are involved.

Beck is already under suspension as an AFL-CIO vice president and Executive Council member and is to be given a hearing before the council May 20, provided he wants to appear.

An AFL-CIO trial of the Teamsters Union on charges that it is controlled or substantially dominated by "corrupt" influences is scheduled for May 6 before the AFL-CIO's Ethical Practices Committee, subject to later hearings also before the Executive Council. But these hearings, too, are optional with the Teamsters.

Meany made it clear Wednesday that with or without the hearings the AFL-CIO will go ahead with processing the charges.

Illegal

The Teamsters executive board, meeting Tuesday at Galveston, Tex., claimed Beck's suspension had been illegal and proposed that Meany name a committee to confer with one from the Teamsters to talk over the situation with respect to Beck.

Meany rejected this, saying Beck's removal was according to the federation constitution, which Beck and the Teamsters had supported.

The AFL-CIO chief's statement said the matter of enforcing the federation's ethical practices standards "cannot be the subject for negotiation or bargaining between the AFL-CIO and any of its member units."

Where the teamsters board wanted charges against the union spelled out in more detail and advance assurances of fair trial procedures, Meany said they ould have the right previously accorded other unions to be represented by attorneys, submit evidence and file briefs.

The situation appeared to add up to this: That AFL-CIO chiefs are determined to oust the teamsters unless the union conducts a cleanup, including electing a new slate of officers, not including Beck and some other Teamsters chiefs under criticism.

Contempt Action Is Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—A contempt of Congress case and a possible perjury action developed Wednesday at a lively session of the Senate's public investigation of labor violence in Scranton, Pa.

Three convicted terrorists invoked the Fifth Amendment to avoid possible self-incrimination, one refusing to say whether he regards himself as a "decent citizen."

Another trio—all business agents of Scranton's stormy Local 229 of the Teamsters Brotherhood—insisted their lawyer be with them before they answer questions.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Rackets Committee agreed.

But McClellan warned the three Teamster business agents—John Durkin, Joseph McHugh and Robert Malloy, all previously mentioned in connection with acts of violence—that there will be no more delay if the lawyer, Joseph Brennan of Scranton, isn't on hand Thursday.

Angrily

"You're going to testify anyway," said the senator.

McClellan angrily ordered the investigating committee's staff to prepare contempt of Congress charges against Robert Hubshman, who refused to answer such questions as the one about his civic-mindedness, or lack of it. He invoked the Fifth Amendment each time.

The perjury investigation was aimed at the testimony of Joseph Bartell, business agent of the Scranton carpenters and one of four labor leaders convicted last October of conspiracy in the dynamiting of a house being built with non-union labor.

Bartell told the committee he "had nothing to do with the bombing of a house." Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) exclaimed: "But you were found guilty."

"Sir, there is a new trial pending," said Bartell.

Soup Firm To Try Plant At Kearney

OMAHA (AP)—The Campbell Soup Company has leased space at the old Kearney Air Base for a limited tomato-processing operation, President W. B. Murphy of Campbell said Wednesday.

This may be expanded into a year-around soup making plant later.

Murphy, who lives in Camden, N. J., said machinery will be installed to process tomatoes from the company's test acres near Kearney into pulp, an ingredient of sauces.

He said production at Kearney last year was "sufficiently promising to enlarge the experiment."

He emphasized that Nebraska tomato production "is still in the experimental stage . . . we have to be very sure before making a large plant investment."

Might Be Year-Around

Murphy said if the plant is established at Kearney it would make soup on a year-around schedule. Other ingredients for various soup lines could be obtained easily.

Murphy was in Omaha to speak to the Omaha-Lincoln financial analysts society.

He also conferred with officials of C. A. Swanson & Sons, purchased by Campbell last year.

Murphy said the Omaha facilities are being rearranged into strictly a specialized foods production. Butter and margerine production and commercial storage have been dropped.

He said a "super TV dinner" being tested may be produced here. It combines in one package a dish of soup, fried chicken, potatoes and apple pie.

Murphy said if the company finds it necessary to expand its Omaha facilities for growing demand, a new plant would be built outside the congested area. Present locations have no room for expansion, he said.

Recess Threat Arises

Senate Won't OK House Version Of Money Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bitter Senate-House dispute over a money bill carrying funds for relief checks was left hanging fire Wednesday night as both branches quit until noon Thursday.

The senators made plain before they quit, however, that they did not intend to accept the latest version of the measure, the third, sent over by the House.

The lawmakers had been planning to start an Easter recess after work Thursday to last until April 29. But plans for this were awry; some members said they already had canceled plane reservations.

The most important item tied up in the bill is the federal share of public assistance payments in May and June.

'Danger'

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), the Republican leader, said he didn't believe Congress would take a holiday "while there was danger" that payments to the needy blind, aged and disabled would not be met. Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont), acting Democratic leader, said the Senate would not recess this week if the measure is not enacted.

The Senate had hoped to amend the third version of the legislation and send it back to the House before adjournment Wednesday night.

But it was blocked from doing so when Sen. Malone (R-Nev) launched on a lengthy speech strongly protesting elimination from the bill of funds for government minerals purchases.

Leaders attempted to persuade Malone to yield the floor but he would not do so. The Senate then recessed until Thursday with the understanding he could resume his speech when it meets at noon.

The bill, which has been in dispute since mid-February, carries 275 million to pay the federal share of public assistance grants to be made by the states in May and June.

Not In Dispute

This amount is not in dispute, but the House and Senate have been unable to get together on other appropriations contained in the bill.

Late Wednesday the House refused on a unanimous voice vote to accept the Senate's latest proposal for a compromise. It shelved the Senate's proposals and sent back a new bill of its own.

The new legislation would provide 275 million for public assistance grants and 45 million dollars for the small business administration's loan fund, plus a smaller amount for widow's gratuities.

But it left at $16,728,000 the maximum amount of assistance grants that could be used for administrative expenses by state agencies. This was one million less than the Senate wants and one million more than the House voted originally.

"We met them half way," commented Rep. Taber (R-NY), senior Republican member of the House Appropriations Committee.

House leaders indicated a disposition to cut off any further compromise efforts and go ahead with plans for an Easter recess after Thursday's session.

Senators Visit Trade School

Members of the Legislature's Revenue Committee paid an expected visit Wednesday to the Nebraska Trade School. The committee is considering a bill that would provide the school with funds derived from five per cent of a three-quarter mill building fund levy. Senators Visit Trade School, Report Dilemma On Fund Need

By ROY CAMPBELL
Star Staff Writer

MILFORD, Neb. — The Legislature's Revenue Committee was, as one member put it Wednesday, "locked in the horns of a dilemna" following a visit to the State Trade School.

Reactions to the visit, which later will be formalized in a report to the full legislature, varied with the senators. Committee members almost unanimously reported, though, that present buildings were a "disgrace" and something needed to be done.

At question before the committee is a possible appropriation, through the Institutional Building Fund, to improve buildings at the school. Under terms of LB 30, pending before the committee, the Trade School would receive five per cent of receipts of a three-quarter mill levy during the next 10 years.

Not Now Included

The school at present is not included under the building levy. Gov. Victor Anderson had recommended the levy be continued at a half mill, as opposed to the 1.1 mill levy in operation during the past 10 years.

Lowell Welch, Trade School superintendent, told the senators Wednesday the institutions's building plans envision a $900,000 construction program during the next 10 years. Included would be a major shop building.

This would cost from $700,000 to $800,000. Other shop buildings also would be built.

The school's allotment under the proposed bill would bring in $1,237,500 during the 10-year period.

380 Students

Supt. Welch told the committee there presently are 380 students in the school from 79 counties in the state. Classes are in motor overhauling, mechanical arts, watchmaking and rehabilitation, shoe repair, and automotive repair, as well as others.

Reaction of senators to the visit gave no indication of whether or not definite efforts will be made to exclude the school from the institutional fund levy. A previous report that such a move is being considered was confirmed by Sen. Charles Tvrdik of Omaha, committee member.

He said the state "ought to build up" the school or "get out." The senator said he would be in favor of the "get out" move.

One of two things will have to be done, according to Sen. Marvin Bedford of Geneva: "Either spend some money or throw it out." Another member, Sen. David D. Tews, reported he didn't want allocations to the Board of Control, cut from 45 to 19 per cent by the bill, cut too short to carry on state hospital building needs.

Checking Hospital

Sen. Tews said he was checking building needs at the Norfolk State Hospital in his district.

Sen. Monroe Bixler, chairman of the Revenue Committee, reported the Trade School buildings were a "disgrace" in their present condition. "Something should be done," Sen. Bixler said, but "we're faced with a hell of a problem." The problem of institutional building needs, he said, will have to rest with the whole Legislature.

Sen. Stan Portsche, Lincoln, reported the school was "doing a good job" and there was a "need for this type of education." All students, he said, "can't be formally educated in schools" like the University of Nebraska.

A scheduled trip to Beatrice was postponed by the committee because of the time taken up in touring the Trade School. The Beatrice trip, as well as a visit to the Nebraska City School for the Blind, will be made at a later date, Sen. Bixler said.

East To Get Warm Rain; Rest Showers

The eastern half of Nebraska will enjoy rains Thursday, the west scattered afternoon showers, and the entire state rainshowers on Thursday night and Friday.

Temperatures, topped by 67 at Omaha and 65 at Lincoln and Norfolk Wednesday, were to rise to near 70 in the extreme east Thursday.

Highs across the state Thursday were to range from 60 to 70 degrees, marking a definite warming trend in the west and north.

The western portion of the state had highs generally in the 50s Wednesday. Chadron in the northwest had an overnight low of just 31 degrees. The Lincoln low was 48.

An early spring hail storm hit Cheyenne County late Wednesday, covering the ground with small ice pellets. A quarter of an inch of rain fell along with the hail and winds hit 55 miles an hour. No damage was reported.

Earlier rainfall, reasonably well distributed over the state, ranged to .65 inch at Western and .60 inch at Pawnee City and Milford. Reported amounts:

It Can Hit Any Target

Whole World Invention's Field

By JOHN B. KNOX

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Scientists unveiled a secretly-developed American invention Wednesday which they say promises to guide any kind of craft—plane, missile, ship or submarine — free from enemy interference—to any chosen spot on earth.

"Inertial Guidance," as it's called by its developers at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, already has flown a big B-29 from Boston to Los Angeles.

Operating without magnetic compass, radio or radar, without a glimpse of earth, sun or stars, Inertial Guidance is said by the scientists to need no electronic signal or radar beam—and therefore can't be "jammed" by apparatus in the hands of an enemy.

Size of Tin Can

Heart of the system is a completely free-floating gyroscope sealed in a little four-inch cylinder the size of a tomato can. They say this incredibly complicated mechanism always remains aimed in a fixed position in relation to the universe independent of the earth's motion. And it can't be affected by other natural phenomena such as weather, sunspots and magnetic influences on polar flights, the scientists add.

The delicate gyro wheel, spinning 12,000 revolutions per minute, floated in a fluid and pivoted on virtually frictionless sapphire bearings, is described as "a major break through in the field of gyro technology." The scientists hint it might be of very great importance in flight through outer space—as to the moon or Mars.

It is being applied to flight and fire control as well as to navigation. Military application for all three usees has been developed at MIT.

Two Given Credit

Dr. Charles S. Draper, head of the MIT Department of Aeronautical Engineering, and Dr. Walter Wrigley, professor of aeronautical engineering and educational director of the huge MIT instrumentation laboratory, have been largely responsible for Inertial Guidance.

The system resulted from research begun in 1939 by Dr. Draper. He headed a group at MIT, which developed the remarkable Mark XIV gunsight under the sponsorship of the Sperry Gyroscope Co., and the U.S. Navy Bureau of Ordnance. In its first battle experience after installation on the USS South Dakota and destroyers, the Mark XIV gunsight accomplished the startling record of shooting down 32 attacking Japanese aircraft.

Staff of 700

Research on gyro-radar-computer fire control, target-locater systems, continues in the Instrumentation Laboratory staffed by 700 scientists, engineers and technicians. Its facilities are divided between Cambridge and huge Hanscom Field at nearby Bedford.

It was from Hanscom Field in 1953 that the historic but secret flight of the big B-29 started. The plane flew to Los Angeles without supervision from the pilot until it was within easy communication range of its destination.

While no performance data have been released by the military services, it is known here that efficiency of the equipment has become even greater than the mechanism directing that flight. When MIT scientists aboard that plane congratulated one another, the pilot remarked: "You can celebrate, but I've just lost my job!"

State '56 Retail Sales Top $1½ Billion But Fall Below Two Previous Years

Nebraska's total estimated retail sales last year amounted to more than one and a half billions of dollars but were still under those of 1955 and 1954.

Most of the slippage, according to the Department of Business Research at the University of Nebraska, resulted from weaknesses in agriculture, construction, and automobiles.

The greatest departure from the general pattern came in:

First, retail food store sales which totaled $419.3 million, greater than in either of the two previous years. The 1955 total was $418.1 million; the 1954 total, $413.2 million.

Second, in Omaha and Lincoln where 1956 sales records in all four categories—food, equipment, automobiles, and department store and miscellaneous sales—showed gains over 1954.

Equipment sales, including farm machinery, showed the greatest proportionate drop on a statewide basis, $270.9 million in 1956, compared with $306.8 million in 1955, and $305.7 in 1954.

Automobile sales in 1956 totaled $405.1 million, compared with $448.2 in 1955, and $413.6 in 1954.

Department and miscellaneous store sales were $449.6 million in 1956; $459.8 in 1955, and $454.3 in 1954.

Fifteen cities accounted for over half of the state's total sales. Their records for 1954, 1955, and 1956 in millions of dollars and for all stores follow:

	Retail Sales in Millions
	1954	1955	1956
Omaha	$389.0	$418.9	$400.2

Ike Laughs Off His Brother's Criticism

IT BEGAN WHEN 'I WAS FIVE'

. . . President Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower laughed off Wednesday a suggestion — attributed to his brother Edgar — that the President has come under "too liberal" influences and is spending too much of the taxpayers' money.

"Edgar has been criticizing me since I was five years old," chuckled the President at a news conference which ranged from the simmering Middle East to the question of roadside billboards here at home. (He's against them.)

In serious vein, Eisenhower made these main points:

1. "Some progress seems to have been made toward settling the Suez Canal dispute, and this country has not given up hope of an agreement without recourse to the United Nations Security Council.

2. This country has established policies for helping any Middle East nation attacked by a foreign power. He was talking about Jordan, which has just weathered a government crisis. The policies he mentioned were a U.S.-British-French agreement in 1950 and the "Eisenhower Doctrine" resolution passed by Congress this year, pledging aid upon request to any victim of Communist aggression in the Middle East.

3. He gave his "complete approval" in advance to Postmaster General Summerfield's cutting off postal service last Saturday because Congress had failed to vote emergency funds.

4. The Labor Department is watching "very closely" the Senate hearings on alleged misuse of union funds to see whether any government action is necessary.

Question Is Put

All this developed after one of the 227 reporters asked the President about a published story quoting Edgar Eisenhower as protesting the size of his brother's $71,800,000,000 budget and saying the chief executive has come under "too liberal" influences.

The International News Service story—which Tacoma, Wash., lawyer Edgar denied in part—pictures him as disturbed in particular about the influence of another Eisenhower brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower; Sherman Adams, chief assistant to the President; and industrialist Paul Hoffman.

Plainly, the President was ready for this question. He started to grin as soon as it was broached. Then he gave his laughing rejoinder—which brought an answering roar of laughter. Quickly, Eisenhower switched his attention to another newsman and the subject was dropped.

Edgar Not Worried

Edgar Eisenhower, asked about the matter, told a reporter meanwhile he doesn't "see eye to eye" with Adams but isn't worried about the White House influence of either the Presidential aide or Hoffman, a former head of the now-merged Studebaker Corp.

"I'm not worried about anybody's influence on Dwight," said the President's elder brother. "He can take care of himself."

The brother did question the size of the proposed 1957-58 budget and the propriety of the federal government's aiding public school construction—a project high on the President's priority list.

Court Extends Time

Federal Judge John W. Delehant has extended to April 29 the time in which the trustee of American Buslines Inc. is to submit a summary of the reorganization plan and form of acceptance to be mailed to creditors entitled to vote thereon. Upon court approval, the summary is to be mailed by May 10. The summary was to have been submitted Tuesday but a time extension was asked by the trustee.

STUDENT FILLS PHARMACY HALL WITH ART

A University of Nebraska student working toward a Ph.D. in pharmacy has made Pharmacy Hall look something like an art gallery.

He is Marvin Malone of Fairbury, who has a self-portrait above his desk, an oil creation of an elderly couple in the dean's office and a number of other paintings hung throughout the pharmacy building.

Malone said he is probably more of an artist than a scientist and is developing pharmacy as a profession to support his art.

Art 'Relaxing'

Science is a discipline and needs a precise way of thinking, he said, and art helps him relax and blow off steam.

Besides the paintings hanging in Pharmacy Hall, he has done about 30 others which have been purchased by persons in the Lincoln area.

Malone, who is 27, aims for simplicity in his paintings, which are not abstract. For subjects he prefers human figures, while his wife, the former Shirley Cane of Lincoln, who also paints, prefers landscapes.

Five Books A Week

Painting and studying pharmacy take up only part of Malone's time. He also reads about five books a week.

Describing himself as a bibliomaniac, he said he owns some 2,000 books and has read about 1,000 of them. The others he is saving for future reading.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Malone of Fairbury.

Peace Through Power Not Christ's Concept—Dr. Bach

Peace through power may work, Dr. Marcus Bach said Wednesday, but it hardly seems to have been the concept of Christ.

The guest Holy Week speaker of the Lincoln Council of Churches, discussing the common belief that the atom bomb can maintain the peace, pointed out that Christ was interested in keeping the peace "through love and understanding."

"I have little to say about world affairs or political machinations," the Iowa University professor of religion asserted, citing his gospel as a personal message directed to the individual life.

"His hope for a better world was premised upon changed lives," Dr. Bach concluded.

Copies of Dr. Bach's meditation address were distributed to the estimated 350 persons attending the third in the series of Holy Week addresses held in St. Paul Methodist Church.

The series, relating the events of the "first Holy Week" with today's present life and problems, will continue Thursday at noon and Friday from 12 to 3 p.m.

'On Account'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service here reported receipt of an envelope, postmarked Richmond, containing $1,000 in ten one hundred dollar bills.

The nameless Virginian included no income tax return, no return address; only this penciled note: "Several years ago I omitted including $2,000 in my return and I am now sending you $1,000 on my account."

District Director C. W. Glotzbach said the IRS very definitely intends to keep this "conscience money."

Geneva Girl's Training Chief May Retire

Reliable sources have reported that Mrs. Blanche M. Clouse, superintendent of the Girls Training School at Geneva, has expressed a desire to retire from her position.

Mrs. Clouse

Mrs. Clouse, 70, who has been associated with Board of Control institutions for more than 20 years, said she had "no comment" to make on the retirement report "at this time."

She served as superintendent of the Women's Reformatory at York from 1936-38; as superintendent of the Girls Training School at Geneva from 1938-51; as business manager of the Home for Children at Lincoln from 1951-52, as superintendent of the Home from 1952-55, and again as superintendent at Geneva since 1955.

Tacoma Teamsters Recommend Oust Action For Beck

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Tacoma Teamsters Local 313 has recommended ousting of Dave Beck as international president and refusing him a pension, the News Tribune reported Wednesday.

The newspaper said union members informed it that the local voted almost unanimously to that effect at a meeting April 9. The News Tribune said the Teamsters also called for discharge of any official invoking the Fifth Amendment when asked about union business.

Harry Satterlee, secretary of the 2,500-member local, refused comment on the story.

Beck has said he already is eligible for retirement with a $50,000 annual pension, the same amount as his salary, but that he intends to seek another term as international president.

About 500 Attend Bethany Christian Easter Pageant

About 500 persons attended the Easter pageant, "The Cross Triumphant," presented at Bethany Christian Church Wednesday evening.

The pageant, an annual production, was given this year as a memorial to Mrs. Faith K. Leavitt, creator of the script, who died recently.

The pageant will be presented again Friday at 8 p.m. and Easter Sunday at 5 a.m. One hundred children and 50 adults are included in the cast, and there is an 18-voice choir.

Mrs. Farel Hyland is director and Mrs. Helen Cox, assistant director of the pageant.

Athenians Cheer Cypriot Archbishop

ATHENS (AP) — Vast crowds of Athenians Wednesday welcomed Archbishop Makarios from 13 months of detenton in the Seychelle Islands. He predicted his fellow Cypriots will succeed in "shaking off the British yoke."

Thousands cheered the Greek Orthodox churchman at the airport and along the seven-mile route of his triumphal entry into the city of Athens.

Makarios arriver from Nairobi, Kenya, where he had stopped en route from the Seychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean. He was banished from Cyprus a year ago last March on the grounds that he was encouraging violence by EOKA, the Greek Cypriot underground which seeks to join Cyprus with Greece.

He was released by the British April 5 in a move to resume negotiations on the future of the island.

The future of negotiations is clouded by Britain's refusal to let Makarios return to Cyprus, and the archbishop's declaration he will not negotiate unless he is allowed to return. He renewed his demands in a speech to Athenians.

Gas Explosion Kills Mother, Two Children

. . . Father Injured

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — A pre-dawn gas explosion Wednesday blew a house apart, killed a mother and her two children and critically burned the father.

The horrified father then plunged a screwdriver into his body in a suicide attempt, he told authorities.

In a hospital bed Wednesday night, Woodrow Matthews, 42, said gasoline caught fire in his basement and touched off the blast. It killed his wife, Ella, 40, their daughter, Alma, 14, and son, Carl, 10.

Matthews, lying face down on the hospital bed, with his body 70 per cent burned and punctured in several places, told Dist. Atty. Louis M. Greenblott he no longer wanted to live when he realized his family was dead.

Gas Tank

He said he had brought his car into a cellar garage to repair the gas tank.

He drained the gasoline into a can and then used a wrench to turn off the gas supply to the house. Somehow, he said, the gasoline caught fire and the blast followed.

Earlier, Greenblott had said there was a "possibility of homicide" in the case." The Broome County prosecutor had made this statement before Matthews, a painter in an industrial plant, could be questioned.

Fancy Flying Gets DC7 Down Safely At Omaha

OMAHA (AP) — A United Air Lines DC7 piloted by Capt. C. L. Pratt made an emergency landing at the Omaha municipal airport Wednesday night without incident, UAL officials said.

The plane with 58 aboard, was out of Washington for Chicago. But weather kept the pilot from landing at Chicago and he came on to Omaha.

Officials said the plane's hydraulic pressure system controlling the brakes and wheels failed over Omaha so the pilot used a "free fall" to get the wheels down and then banked sharply right and left to lock the wheels before landing.

Helmets Tried

Police officials report the helmet will be used on a trial basis and if it proves satisfactory the department may purchase some for motorcycle officers. A California firm makes the helmets, which sell for about $30. (Star Staff Photo.)

Drilling Rig Flops; Nine Lost

. . . In Gulf Of Mexico

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A giant oil drilling barge overturned in the Gulf of Mexico about 80 miles southeast of here Wednesday and nine crewmen were believed drowned.

Rescuers picked up six crewmen from the "Golden Meadow No. 7" which was being towed to a new location about three miles offshore.

Drilling pipe piled on the six-month-old barge was believed to have broken loose, causing the rig to topple over in 28 feet of water.

Airplanes, unable to reach the scene immediately because of rough weather, later reported no bodies amid the debris around the rig. Seas were running five to six feet high and wind was up to 40 miles an hour in gusts.

Lewis Geer, co-owner of the Golden Meadow Well Service Co., owner of the barge, said the rig was floated to a new location last Monday and put in position on a shell bed to drill a well.

It was being towed by two tugs when it started to overturn. Tugboat crewmen cut the lines and the tugs were not damaged.

Courthouse Bid Advertising May Come Next Month

HARRISBURG, Neb. (AP) — Architect Robert Ditzen told Banner County commissioners he hopes that bids can be advertised for next month on the proposed new courthouse here.

County residents approved expenditures from a courthouse sinking fund at the general election in November.

The county has $60,000 for the project from the sinking fund. It is believed that a bond issue will not be necessary.

The sinking fund has collected about $10,000 annually for more than six years through a one mill levy.

Weather Ahead

Extended forecast for Nebraska:

Temperatures will average 2 to 4 degrees below normal. Normal highs are in the mid 60s and normal lows range from low 30s in the northwest to low 40s in the southeast. Warmer Friday, cooler about Tuesday. Some rain is expected in the state Thursday and again Sunday or Monday, amounting to between .25 and .50 of an inch.

Like The Plague

MOSCOW (AP) — Young Communists were told rock 'n' roll should be avoided like the plague, but that American jazz is all right when performed by artists like Duke Ellington and Louis Armstrong.

Lincolnite Who Bombed Tokyo Goes To Reunion

. . . Jimmy Doolittle Will Be There

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — Jimmy Doolittle, who bombed Tokyo just 15 years ago in one of military annals' historic raids, will play hookey from school late this week to attend the annual reunion of the survivors of that first American counter-punch after Pearl Harbor.

Doolittle, vice president emeritus of the Shell Oil Co., and holder of six government commission jobs in Washington, is taking refresher classes most of this week at the Air University at Montgomery, Ala., along with other Reserve Air Force Generals.

Doolittle is a lieutenant general in the flying reserve. In the event of a major war, the 60-year-old flier-engineer would be immediately assigned to the Strategic Air Command.

He'll gather Friday at Elgin Air Force Base, near Pensacola, Fla., with about 40 of the 80 men he met there in 1942 and commanded in a hit-and-run mission of almost unprecedented daring. Fifteen of the 16 B-25s which miraculously flew off the deck of the carrier Hornet on the stormy morning of the raid crashed late in the day off or on the China coast, after bombing Tokyo and other Japanese cities. The sixteenth, commanded by then Capt. Edward J. "Ski" York, the only West Pointer on the mission, flew on to Vladivostok, landed safely, and was interned with his crew for much of the remainder of the war.

Doolittle gave us a rundown on the status of his fliers, before zipping to Montgomery in a two-seater jet trainer.

"Of the original 80," he said, "one was killed when his chute failed to function as he tried to bail out over China. Two were drowned in ditchings. Two crews, numbering eight, were captured by the Japanese. Of those, three were executed and one starved to death. Thus we lost seven of our boys on the raid.

"Twelve were killed later in other theaters of war. Lt. Bob Clever, who lived through the crash of Ted Lawson's plane off the coast of China, was later killed in a routine flight across the U.S. That left 60. Two weeks ago Col. Ross Greening, who designed the two-bit bombsight we installed in the planes after removing the Norden, died at 42 after a long illness he picked up while serving as an air attache at our embassy in Manila. Sixteen of us served as his pallbearers at Arlington.

"So that leaves 59 of the 80. Jack Hilger is the first of the boys to make general. We've got a number of colonels, led by Davey Jones."

The first reunions of the Tokyo raiders were in the mood of a promise Doolittle made to the men a few days before they were prematurely spotted by a Japanese trawler and had to take off on their bombing raid eight hours earlier than scheduled. On that occasion, Doolittle, then a lieutenant colonel, said, "Well, if we all get to Chungking (after the raid) I'll throw the biggest dam' party you ever saw."

At the first reunion, which chose Miami as its locale, a cola drink manufacturer offered to supply the men with all the whisky they wanted provided they posed for a picture showing them drinking his product. They posed, and the manufacturer kept his word. He never tried it again.

In more recent years, at Doolittle's urging, the survivors have awarded a trophy to the Air Force unit with the best ground safety record—a seemingly prosaic gift from a group of men who blindly volunteered and lived through an adventure of colossal danger.

Richard O. Joyce, pilot of one of the B-25s that bombed Tokyo and four other Japanese cities during World War II, is in Florida this week for the annual reunion of survivors of the historic raid.

Joyce

Joyce, who lives at 2710 Woodscrest, parachuted over China with his crew. He spent eight days without food before reaching civilization.

In A Pastor's Study—50 Years Ago

Dr. Edward L. Jeambey, pastor of Fourth Presbyterian Church, stands by a portion of his display of articles that might have been found in a pastor's study of 50 years ago. The exhibit, displayed during the church's 50th-year celebration this week, includes Christmas and greeting cards (left), books, household articles and clothing. Dr. Jeambey holds a Sunday School quarterly of 1907 vintage. To his right is an illustrated 1907 calendar. (Star Photo.)

1907 Display Marks Church's 50th Year

The Rev. Edward L. Jeambey, pastor of Fourth Presbyterian Church, 48th and Cleveland, has collected together articles representing a pastor's study of 50 years ago to celebrate the church's 50th year.

The old pastor's study at Fourth Presbyterian, now used as a Sunday School room, has been transformed into a 1907 vintage preacher's study with articles Dr. Jeambey "just picked up here and there."

Articles "that could have been in a pastor's study 50 years ago" include wedding certificates of 1881 and 1860, Sunday School materials, a framed and illustrated Lord's Prayer, Nebraska and Lincoln scenes including pictures of W. J. Bryan's home and Bryan himself.

Bibles And Corn Knives

Personal possessions of that era are old spectacles, a leather case for carrying sermons and Bibles, several silk hats and a derby, and even an old corn knife for paring human callouses.

An old shaving mug, brush, mirror case and razor represent the time "when ministers often shaved in their studies," according to Dr. Jeambey.

For cold weather of the '07 variety, Dr. Jeambey has included a buffalo coat and an old-fashioned umbrella.

Historical articles among the collection are souvenirs picked up in San Francisco after the earthquake and fire, some Cripple Creek, Colo., gold mine stock and a framed mourning picture of President McKinley, published soon after he was shot.

Church members and visitors are welcomed into the old time pastor's study during the weeklong anniversary celebration at Fourth Presbyterian which concludes on Easter Sunday.

Household Articles

Household articles culled from Dr. Jeambey's many collections include an iron "used to press the preacher's pants", pots and pans of that period and even an old carpet sweeper.

To illustrate entertainment of 50 years ago, Dr. Jeambey has included a magic lantern and slides and a toy sideboard "for the preacher's daughter."

An ancient typewriter used for composing sermons and several ink wells are there along with a quantity of books, pictures and church papers. An illustrated calendar of 1907 from the State Bank of Edgar, Neb. and Christmas and greeting cards of the 1900 vintage decorate the walls.

Century Old

Dr. Jeambey, now in his ninth year at Fourth Presbyterian, also has a collection showing a pastor's study of 100 years ago. The exhibit was used at the Presbyterian church in Bellevue, Neb., on its 100th anniversary several years ago.

Other events planned for the remaining 50th anniversary celebration period at Fourth Presbyterian Church include a charter day celebration Thursday evening and an anniversary banquet Friday evening at which Dr. A. Leland Forrest, chancellor of Nebraska Wesleyan University, will speak Easter Sunday services will include recognition of the church's 50th anniversary.

Workers Protest

CHICAGO (INS) — Some 5,000 employes of Swift & Co. protested the firm's decision to end pork processing operations at the Chicago plant.

The workers staged a noon-hour demonstration.

Youths, Man Arraigned In Morals Case

A 32-year-old laborer and three youths were arraigned in Lancaster County Court Wednesday on charges resulting from a morals incident early last Sunday morning involving a 13-year-old girl.

Willard Eugene Vantine, 32, a Wyuka Cemetery employe of 3097 S, pleaded innocent of a charge of debauching a minor.

Specifically, Vantine was charged with "aiding and assisting in arranging a meeting of the girl and persons of the opposite sex for the purpose of immoral practices."

$2,500 Bond Set

Judge Herbert Ronin set Vantine's preliminary hearing for May 11 and required a $2,500 appearance bond.

Debauchery of a minor charges were made against the three youths, who each pleaded guilty and were bound over to District Court for further disposition of their cases. All were released under $2,000 bond.

Roger James Law, 20, of 3420 P was specifically charged with "indecent exposure of his person" to the girl and Donald Eugene Allensworth, 18, of 724 So. 21st, was charged with "fondling" the girl.

The third youth, 17, was charged with "aiding and assisting in arranging the meeting" between the girl and other persons for immoral practices.

Authorities said the alleged incident occurred on the Wyuka Cemetery grounds and greenhouse after midnight last Saturday. Vantine was night caretaker.

The girl involved in the case will be turned over to Juvenile authorities.

Local Post Office Gets Safety Award

The Lincoln Post Office has received a motor vehicle safety award for improved performance in accident prevention during 1956.

The award, issued by the Post Office Department's Regional Office at Wichita, Kan., was made for improved performance over the previous year and above-average rating in the three-state region.

The Wichita Regional Office, comprising Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma, had the lowest accident rate during 1956 of the 15 postal regions.

Lincoln Postmaster O. E. Jerner credited the excellent performance of post office drivers for the award to the local office.

Lincoln Phone Co. Request Denied

The State Railway Commission denied authority to the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. to discontinue extended area service to Bennet to Hickman, Palmyra and Panama and to establish extended area service between Bennet and the Lincoln Zone at Group G rates.

The Pendulum Swings

In a part of the earth so politically fluid as Egypt and the Near East it is dangerous to hail any momentary turn of events as a solid and lasting triumph for any side. Matters can change by the hour there.

Thus does not diminish the value of a favorable event, especially one that adds to a series of favorable events. It is in view of this that the West can take comfort in the eviction of pro-Red, pro-Egyptian forces from the Jordan government by King Hussein.

British educated, pro-Western Hussein has set the stage for the collapse of the Nasser regime and has prepared the field for the solid rooting of the Eisenhower program. Wise use of the opportunity now rests with the United States.

At the present stage King Hussein's action is comparable to that of the Shah of Iran who in 1953 arose at the crucial moment and smashed the anti-Western movement of his prime minister Mossadegh. That act did not divorce Iran from the Arab bloc but it did quench a fire that was threatening to spread throughout the Near and Middle East. Conceivably the westward swing of Jordan, following the successful negotiations between the United States and King Saud will be sufficient to quench the fire of the Nasser movement.

In this contest for loyalties the Eisenhower doctrine has now enlisted Jordan, Lebanon, Iraq, Lybia and Tunisia with Saudi Arabia at least playing ball. Nasser in contrast is down to his own Egypt, Syria and Yemen.

The interruption of the postal service turned out to be a week end incident but it was long enough to leave the American public with some distasteful reflections.

A once-over-lightly view credits Postmaster Summerfield with a victory over Congress. He made the latter fork over $41 million to cover a deficit his own administration fashioned out of a mixture of its own administrative ideas and a previous appropriation which may not have been realistically arrived at. But such an appraisal of victory is not of the essence.

The precedent of a department head withholding a public service is subject to deep question. One can well imagine the consternation if, say, the secretary of defense immobilized the Army and Navy and grounded the bombers because of a difference of opinion between himself and the Congress over a deficit. We imagine there would be some strong feeling if perhaps a secretary of agriculture cancelled the farm program for the same reason. One can also well imagine the end of congressional efforts toward economy if federal departments assumed the position that their concept of operation takes priority over congressional decision.

It will take a good deal of proof to show that a suspension of mail service, not involving a suspension of mail acceptance is an act of true economy. Whatever the saving from a Saturday without delivery it must have been greatly offset by the extra expenses early the following week in clearing out the clogged channels of the postal service. It may have been ordered in the name of economy, but that wasn't the result.

The Governor's Bill

Nebraska interests dedicating themselves to greater diversification of the state's economy will be pleased to learn that Governor Victor Anderson has taken the initiative in behalf of their objective.

This week the governor's office dispatched a bill to the Legislature. It calls for an amendment to the constitution which the Supreme Court has ruled presently forbids a city to issue revenue bonds to attract new industry.

The history of the problem is an interesting one. The 1955 Legislature gave statutory consent to such use of revenue bonds. Later, in a friendly suit the constitutionality of the statute was tested. The opportunity was provided when the city of York essayed a revenue bond issue for the construction of a plant building for an industry which was prepared to pay sufficient rental to retire the bonds. The Supreme Court dashed the city's hopes when it pointed to a constitutional barrier forbidding the use of public credit for private advantage.

It is to liberalize this constitutional prohibition that the governor's new bill seeks an amendment.

Doubtless the framers of the Nebraska constitution did not have it in mind to prevent the state from adjusting itself to the necessity of growth and progress. They were on sound ground when they set up safeguards against private benefit from public privilege, but a thoughtful and prudent approach to industrial expansion should show the way where a community can create a more favorable environment without violating the principle. In view of that the governor's bill is a good one. It invites both action and discussion on a subject of considerable promise and importance.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

"Big Brother" Edgar found himself in trouble clear up to his ears. Whether Edgar Eisenhower told an International News Service writer, Ruth Montgomery, that he thought young brother Milton Eisenhower, Presidential Secretary Sherman Adams, and possibly Paul Hoffman were giving Ike poor advice, becomes a moot question. Edgar disclaims words placed in his mouth by Miss Montgomery. He does, however, reveal that the President's all-time record peace-time budget has him confused.

★

Brother Edgar also admits that he thought government spending is "ridiculously high." And then the President's older brother seems to have been guilty of the unkindest cut of all when he told newsmen that "his (the President's) campaign promises and speeches were for decreased government spending."

Everybody Getting Into The Act

Finally Ike's big brother contributed more to a current hassle by telling newsmen, reportedly, that he was in pretty low spirits, that he and Sherman Adams did not see eye to eye all the time, and that he felt the same way about Hoffman. He, Edgar, concluded that he'd like to discover what influences were at work, at the same time absolving the President from blame because of the rising government costs. "I feel he is somewhat helpless in controlling the budget." Well, it is the President's Budget Brother Edgar is talking about. It cannot be laid on the doorstep of Congress. Congress, armed with sharp knives, knives flashing in the sunlight, has been devoting its time and energy to reducing the budget requests.

★

There came to the editor's desk a little card mailed to him by a thoughtful friend, setting forth the expenditures under the late F.D.R. The New Deal record for spending by the man Hyde Sweet used to call Santa Claus was as follows during those years previous to world War II:

1935	$6.136 billion
1936	$9.035 "
1937	$7.878 "
1938	$7.189 "
1939	$8.916 "
1940	$9.933 "

Thus the much-distorted, criticized spending which took place under Franklin D. Roosevelt during the first six years of the New Deal amounted to only $49.087 billions, or a little more than half of the contemplated budget sent to Congress by Ike for the first year of his second term, a budget which Brother Edgar says is contrary to the President's campaign promises.

★

In 1941, with national defense production getting under way, spending increased to slightly more than $14.5 billion. Then the Second World War came along. In 1942 spending increased to $35.1 billion; in 1943, to $80 billion; in 1944, to $95.3 billion; and in 1945, to $97.95 billion. From that point Uncle Sam's spending decreased to $36.9 billion in 1948, $43.3 billion in 1949, and $46.5 billion in 1950. Three years of the Korean police action saw spending mount to $79.4 billion. It was $74.5 billion under Mr. Eisenhower's first year—$73.1 billion in 1955—$75.9 billion in 1956—and an estimated $80.2 billion in 1957. In 1958, we are told, spending will mount to $86.2 billion. Naturally those figures are of concern. They not only dismay Ike's big brother but they contribute to the apprehension of millions of thoughtful Americans. There was a lot of noise, a fearful lot of noise, in those early years of the New Deal about the waste in Washington. Now we have moved into the position of a broad measure of internationalism that covers the entire world.

All Over The World

It is never smart to take part in a family fuss, if the conflicting views of the President and his big brother constitute a family squabble. But mounting costs of government cannot continue indefinitely. We are inclined to agree with Brother Edgar. As for Ike, he told a news conference Edgar had been picking on him since he was five years of age.

No Cause For War

If we Americans are guilty of self-admiration we know that there is at least one person in the world who doesn't agree with us. After living here seven years an Englishman went back home and wrote about us. He said we were corrupt neurotics who believed in making a dollar any old way, were crazy about sex and didn't mind gangsters and corrupt city politics, so long as we could keep up with the Joneses.

We don't doubt that a lot of British readers will accept that as gospel fact and that some Americans will live up to the description. But it hardly applies to the rank and file of everyday Americans. And if there are many feelings hurt we shall not go to war over it.

In a way it isn't bad to be taken down a notch or two because no nation of people has ever worked out the perfectly admirable way of life and none ought to begin believing it has. In fact that is what is wrong with the British writer who finds us so distasteful. If we are that wrong then it must be conceded that he is the only one who is right. What he was really trying to say was that after seven years he was still unable to see any of the American virtues even if they happened to be the same ones he practiced.

New Era

Education has apparently completed its reorganization at Madison, Indiana, and is ready to tackle the atomic age with confidence. A patron—a father—decided to exercise his traditional right to punch the teacher in the nose. He did. And that was the last thing he did for a while. The teacher shortly handed him over to bystanders with the instruction to "get him patched up, I had to get a little rough with him." It just goes to show that teachers are not like they used to be.

Water Purity Nearly Neglected In Budget

WASHINGTON — In the current scramble to cut the budget, the House almost chopped off the annual $50,000,000 grant to American communities to keep waste and sewage out of their drinking water. Behind the close vote is an untold story of industrial lobbying and pressure direct from the White House.

Opposition to the grant came from the powerful chemical, pulp and paper manufacturers which dump their factory waste into the nation's streams. Federal aid to clean up municipal pollution, they feared, would eventually focus attention on industrial pollution.

As a result, these firms launched a virtual let-them-drink-sewage campaign that reached all the way into the White House. No less than Assistant President Sherman Adams pulled strings to kill the anti-sewage appropriation. Adams used to be manager of the Parker-Young Co., now the Franconia Paper Co., one of New England's important pulp and paper producers. He is also a life director of the Northeast Lumber Manufacturers Association, before which he spoke in Boston last week.

Adams worked through Republican leaders on Capitol Hill to line up a majority of Republicans against the $50,000,000 matching funds which the federal government would extend to cities to help them build sewage-disposal plants. It's interesting to note that during the 1956 campaign, Republican literature took credit for this $50,000,000-a-year program "to purify streams and other water sources which otherwise," they said, "might endanger the health of the public."

Actually, the program was authored by Minnesota's Congressman John Blatnik, a Democrat, though many Republicans voted for it. Thanks to White House pressure, however, a large majority of Republicans went back on their campaign boast and voted in favor of continued sewage dumping in the nation's rivers.

The victorious amendment to kill the appropriation, however, was not introduced by Republicans but by two Texas Democrats—O. Clark Fisher of San Angelo and Omar Burleson of Anson. Ironically, their districts are collecting almost half of the federal money allotted to Texas right now to clean up drinking water.

In Burleson's district, the Sweetwater sewage system was so antiquated and overloaded that raw sewage seeped into a tributary of the Brazos River. This supplies drinking water for Abilene and Dyess Air Force Base. In Sweetwater, itself, the water is no longer sweet but contaminated by the town's own sewage.

However, this is now in the process of being remedied, thanks in part to funds voted for Texas by the federal government.

Water is so scarce in Fisher's district that his constituents want to irrigate with the discharge from the San Angelo sewage treatment plant.

Of the $1,700,000 allotted to Texas for sewage treatment this year, Burleson's district is receiving $500,000 and Fisher's will get $266,200. However, their pollution problems are on the way to being solved by the program the two congressmen fought so hard to sabotage in Washington.

Postal Problem Is Obsolescence

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield has won a great victory over Congress. He has proved that if he has nerve enough, a cabinet officer can make cuts in his appropriation react so severely on the public that the public will force Congress to yield its power of the purse to the executive branch.

That is what happened here this week. The postmaster general spent his appropriation ahead of time and got more from Congress after he had refused to deliver the mail on Saturdays.

The confusion was compounded when the director of the budget, Percival Brundage, admitted he didn't know that postal revenues went into the general funds of the government. Brundage thought the more business the post office department got, the deeper in the hole it went.

It adds up to quite a performance by a "businessman's administration" under a President who is a passionate advocate of the division of powers between the executive, legislative and judicial branches and quotes it at the drop of a controversial question.

Nevertheless, there is no disposition on the part of members of Congress to deny that Summerfield got away with it. It rankles, but they are politicians trained to listen to the voice of the people. They listened—and appropriated the money, though it rankles.

How much it rankles will appear when the postmaster general comes up for his next regular appropriation. He can depend on it that personally he won't even get a new wastebasket.

But so far he has, with the President's backing, won every major fight. After he had persuaded the President to veto two pay bills, he got a new classification system he wanted and Congress didn't. He has put in a new system of regional offices which senators claim adds to his costs but not to his efficiency.

☆ ☆ ☆

In a real sense, however, their hassles are a side issue. The unpalatable facts are that the mail has never moved so slowly and erratically as now and that postal officials are trying to handle the postal burdens of an expanding America with an antiquated plant a private industry would have long since shut down. No new post offices of any size have been built since 1940, though the mail burden has more than tripled.

This problem has not been tackled with courage and vision at either end of Pennsylvania Avenue.

Members of Congress have tried to hold on to the post offices as their private political hunting grounds.

The Eisenhower business administration has never sent to the Hill or put its full weight behind the kind of change and modernization required for a postal system that would meet today's and tomorrow's needs. Such a move would be expensive and politically risky.

The post office is not an easy shop to modernize, but Americans have licked worse problems.

BOB CONSIDINE

Fog Lifts, Plane Skirts Building

NEW YORK — Ernie Pyle, who was killed on Ie Shima on April 18, 1945, had been living on borrowed time for about 15 years prior to that.

Ernie was aviation editor of the Washington Daily News in 1930. The Lockheed people had come up with a fast single-engined plane called the Vega, if memory serves, and a man who dreamed of quick transportation between Washington and New York offered to demonstrate it — with Pyle as a passenger.

Off they went from Washington's old airport (which had an automobile road running through it, and power lines around two sides of it) and in a few minutes the pilot guessed he must be over Baltimore. They had run into a peasoup fog. Their radio contact with the rest of the world was sketchy at best. There was no radar, of course, and a minimum of cockpit aids.

As they breezed along at a real good clip the pilot turned to Ernie and asked, "you got any idea where the Baltimore airport might be?"

Pyle scratched his head and said "I don't know, but I have a hunch it ought to be off there somwhere to the left."

"Okay," the pilot said, and banked left.

Just as he did, Pyle looked to the right and caught sight of a chilling scene. It was a girl, typing at an office desk, about 20 feet away. The plane was flying below the top level of Baltimore's lone sentinel-like skyscraper. If the plane had proceeded on its former course for another microsecond, well . . .

Brother Edgar Eisenhower, who lowered the boom on Brother Dwight's 72 billion dollar budget and Brother Milton's "liberal" influence on the President, said himself a real mouthful for our Ruth Montgomery the other day. Some closed-door family session probably will emerge out of that one.

Edgar Eisenhower has had strong feelings about the way the country has been run for a long time, and the wonder is that he hasn't sounded off before this in print. The Tacoma lawyer has never quite gotten over Brother Milton's one-time close association with Henry Wallace.

As for Brother Ike, he has said to intimates that the best brain he has encountered in his life is that of Brother Milton.

JESUS LOVED THEM

The Centurion

"Now when the centurion saw what was done, he glorified God, saying, Certainly this was a righteous man." —Luke XXIII:47

A centurion, as the name indicates, was an officer in the Roman army, who commanded a hundred soldiers.

Scripture tells us very little of the Centurion who rode at the head of the tragic procession which escorted Jesus to Calvary to be crucified.

We know that he rode a horse and that after him, among the Roman legionaries, came Jesus and the two thieves who were to be executed with Him.

Following them came the jeering mass of men, women, and even children who pressed around Him with words of cruel mockery and abuse.

It is evident from the hints given us in the Biblical account that the Centurion, like Pilate, had no enthusiasm for his task. From time to time, he turned around to look back at the Man of Sorrows.

Physically depleted by the previous night of questioning and beatings, His face haggard and blotched with blood, Jesus struggled under the weight of His Cross.

When He fell beneath its weight, the Centurion ordered two soldiers to help Him back to His feet. Then the Roman officer looked about in the crowd for someone to bear the Cross.

On one face he saw pity and grief and disgust. It was the face of Simon, a man from Cyrenia.

So he commanded the stranger to bear the Cross. Simon gladly complied, and the sad procession shuffled on toward the limestone hill outside Jerusalem. Because the powdery white mound resembled a skull, it was called Golgotha.

With growing uneasiness, the Centurion carried out his orders. But as the grisly business proceeded, he noted a strange oppression within himself. Or had he imagined it? Looking upon the One who hung limp upon the crude wooden cross, blood still flowing from His wounds, the Centurion asked himself: Why is this man so different from others who have been crucified?

Then a strange awareness came upon him, a realization that "Certainly, this was a righteous man."

Holding The Line?

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: It's time to dig a little deeper into the budget-cutting session now underway at the Capitol Building. Vic said that the state institutions he visited would have to dismiss all plans for new buildings and pull in their belts another notch. Did Vic pull in his belt when he laid the groundwork to erect a monument to himself in the form of a governor's mansion? His strongest point was that other states had fine mansions and Nebraska shouldn't be in the rear. But in regard to keeping our University on a par with other states, he shut his eyes and wielded the ax.

Now our economy-minded legislators want to vote themselves a raise. If these gentlemen are so penny-wise, why don't they take a cut instead of an increase? It's no wonder Shapiro said that the Midwest (Nebraska) is backward.

B. N. S.

(Editor's Note: In all fairness to Gov. Anderson, it should be pointed out that the governor had little control over appropriation of $200,000 for the mansion now under construction. The Legislature, guided by a mansion building committee, with membership including legislators, directed plans for construction as well as money appropriation and design. The governor, by direction of the senators, was a member of the committee. As regards the budget for the University of Nebraska, the governor's recommendation of $3.2 million additional of the request of $5.5 million more in state funds by the University was more generous than the reported action of the Budget Committee. Incidentally, Sen. Karl Vogel of Omaha, chairman of the Budget Committee, was a member of the mansion committee.

(Lastly, the legislators can only ask voter approval of a raise in their salaries which, on a comparatively national scale, are far down the line. The bill calling for the increase demands an amendment to the Constitution. Many legislators, incidentally, who are exceptionally qualified to serve have had to drop out because of the low salaries offered state senators.

(And as far as Prof. Shapiro is concerned, he's entitled to an opinion the same as the rest of us. That's a democracy.)

Pennies And Pounds

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: A rancher kept 10 cowboys at monthly wages. He laid them all off one day because he was afraid he would not have enough money at the end of the month to pay for an extra man who might possibly be needed. Postmaster Summerfield saved a million dollars on Saturday but paid 10 millions for regular hands who rendered no service. That may be political strategy but it scarcely makes business sense.

Assistance Funds

Broken Bow, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: We second the motion "P. C. R." made in his letter to The Star on April 15 entitled "Long Remember." It concerned those who are 65, 75 and 85 years of age, and trying to eke out an existence on from $47 to $55 a month. Our own children have been paying a large percentage of the public welfare taxes today. We did not ask for assistance in the first place. An unthinking Congress provided it by passing the Social Security Act in 1935 (R. H. 7260). The appropriation for grants to states for old age assistance was $49,750,000, the first monies paid out in our favor.

History is repeating itself. The fight against taxes is proving the old adage. One mistake calls for another in our financial economy, if not corrected in time. The state legislatures grabbed every dollar the federal government appropriated for the benefit of the elder citizens, and converted it to their general fund, doled it out in minute quantities and used the millions of dollars for other state purposes.

Our sincere thanks to those 23 senators who voted for us.

M.D.S.

Urban Renewal

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: It may be that the Lincoln senators used good judgment in taking the advice of C. E. Barney to wait until April 23 for the Legislature to act on LB 431.

Several dozen people came on Monday expecting to hear action on it, as the news had stated. Maybe they will all return, each bringing a friend, and consequently this will get more people interested in our state government. It is an ill wind that blows no good.

But the fact still remains, if the people in other cities shall have a chance to vote on this issue, our Nebraska constitution protects all of us alike and equally well.

Public Power

Columbus, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: This is in reference to your editorial in The Lincoln Star of Thursday, March 28. I read this editorial with a great deal of interest a few days after it was published, and thought it was very good. Last night I read it all over again and then decided I would write and tell you what I think about it. I think it is wonderful. I like what you say about public power in Nebraska and I hope that many people have taken the trouble to read it. It is certainly something for us who are on the inside to think about.

Congratulations, and keep up the good work.

SALARY LIMIT BILL CALLED 'VINDICTIVE'

. . . By Sen. Moulton

Sen. William Moulton of Omaha moved Wednesday to kill a bill placing an $8,000 limit on the salary of the executive secretary of the State Game Commission, calling it a "vindictive piece of legislation."

But the motion to kill LB 71 was defeated by a 9-27 vote.

Sen. Moulton said the Game Commission "can't possibly get a worthy man for a salary of less than $10,000." The present executive secretary, Mel Steen, was hired for six years at $10,500 a year.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha and Sen. Frank Nelson of O'Neill denied that vindictiveness figured in the bill which they introduced along with Sen. Mervin Bedford of Geneva.

"It's high time we have some control over these departments," Syas declared.

The bill, in amended form, fixes an $8,000 limit on the annual salary of future executive secretaries and also limits their appointments to four-year terms and requires legislative approval of the appointments.

The measure previously had been advanced from general file, thus clearing its first big hurdle on the way to final passage, and was up for normally routine advancement from select file when Moulton introduced his kill motion.

Ike 3rd Appeal Ignored, House Cuts USIA Fund 26 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring President Eisenhower's third appeal on the subject, the House Monday passed a bill giving the U.S. Information Agency (USIA) 26 per cent less money than Eisenhower asked.

With this action, the administration's fight for more propaganda funds shifted to the Senate, which will act next on the measure.

The House vote came a few hours after Eisenhower told his news conference he "couldn't overemphasize" the importance of providing USIA with adequate funds. This was the President's third defense in a week of his USIA budget.

Eisenhower requested 144 million dollars for USIA but the House, upholding its appropriations committee, cut this to 106 million.

Also included in the measure were funds to operate the State and Justice Departments and the federal courts in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Voice Vote

As passed by the House by voice vote, the bill carries a total of $563,799,793, which is $101,850,009 less than Eisenhower requested.

The bill had been given tentative approval Tuesday, but the House Wednesday restored a seven-million-dollar cut in State Department funds which it had voted Tuesday. A 205-166 roll call vote restored this money to the department's fund for contributions to international conferences and organizations. Tuesday's tentative standing vote to make such a cut was 76-59.

Voting to put back the money were 128 Democrats and 77 Republicans. Opposed were 67 Democrats and 99 Republicans.

The over-all State Department appropriation was $180,382,743, a cut of $47,331,809.

Other allotments were:

Justice Department $227,855,000, a cut of $6,800,000; the federal judiciary $38,562,050, a cut of $2,218,200; special international programs $10,900,000, a cut of $7,600,000.

Eighth Bill

It was the eighth annual money bill to clear the House this year. None of these has been acted on by the Senate.

The House now has cut 1¼ billion dollars from presidential budget requests totaling about 15 billion.

Omaha Boy Injured Slightly In Accident

A six-year-old Omaha boy was treated for facial cuts at a local hospital and released after he was injured in a two-car accident Wednesday afternoon at 22nd and P.

The youth, Lyle S. Johnson, was riding in a car driven by his mother, Mrs. Helen M. Johnson, 42, of Omaha, when it was in collision with a car driven by Oscar W. Shanks, 43, also of Omaha, police reported.

Mrs. Johnson was travelling north on 22nd and Shanks east on P when the mishap occurred, police said.

Lodge To Cut Short European Tour Because Of Mideast Activity

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS) —A U.S. spokesman announced Wednesday Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge will cut short his European tour and return home this week "because of the general activity in the Middle East."

Lodge had planned to remain in Europe until the end of April. He has been visiting U.N. specialized agencies on the continent since late last month.

The spokesman stressed that Lodge's return does not mean plans are imminent to summon the U.N. Security Council for consideration of action against Egypt's position on the Suez Canal.

Western powers are withholding Council action pending the final outcome of U.S.-Egyptian negotiations on Suez.

British and French diplomats have made it clear they do not intend waiting "indefinitely" for Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser to relinquish his demand for sole control of operations of the vital waterway.

'Null And Void'

U.N. sources discounted reports published in Cairo that Nasser now considers "null and void" Hammarskjold's six principles on running the canal.

Afro-Asian diplomats also questioned the credibility of such reports and one top Arab delegate said he could not understand how such a report was printed by Al Goumhouria, the official Egyptian government newspaper.

Meanwhile, the U.N. disclosed that Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the U.N. Emergency Force in Egypt, has lodged a complaint with Israel concerning the seizure of cattle from the Gaza Strip by Israeli soldiers.

He said the incidents occurred on March 16 and April 1. He requested that Israel send the cattle to U.N.E.F. so they could be returned to their rightful owners.

'Effective Action'

It also was revealed Burns has asked the Egyptian government to take "effective action" to prevent further infiltrations into Israel by Arab inhabitants of Gaza.

The U.N.E.F. commander said that on April 7 Arab infiltrators on two occasions attempted to cross the demarcation line.

Since U.N.E.F. took positions along the Gaza demarcation lines in March, three other complaints have been lodged with Israeli authorities.

Richard Thessen, Ansley, Dies Here

Richard C. Thessen, 65, of Ansley, died Wednesday in Lincoln.

He was a native of Cheyenne, Wyo., and a World War I veteran.

Funeral services and burial will be at Ansley.

Survivors include his wife, Elsie.

Commie Boss Has 'New Hope' For 'Good Relations' With U.S.

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev said Wednesday night Soviet leaders now have a "new hope for something concrete which will help establish good relations" between the Soviet Union and the United States.

The Communist party boss made his declaration as he bade a warm farewell to Charles E. Bohlen, U.S. ambassador here for four years.

With an arm on Bohlen's shoulder, Khrushchev said:

"We like a competent ambassador if he comes to a correct conclusion and sends the right estimate to his government.

"We have new hope for something concrete which will help establish good relations. We still stand behind the Geneva declaration.

"Let us agree there should not be any harm to either of us."

Khrushchev told Bohlen "we do not understand why they are taking you away from us and sending you so far away." Bohlen is becoming U.S. ambassador at Manila.

National Day

The two met at a reception given by Syrian Ambassador Jamal E. Farra in honor of Syria's National Day.

Bohlen told newsmen he understood Khrushchev to say: "We understand you and you understand us. We hate to see you go."

Leaders at the Syrian party besides Khrushchev included Premier Nikolai Bulganin, Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov and former Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov.

Bohlen and his wife were entertained at luncheon by Foreign Minister and Mrs. Andrei Gromyko.

First Trip

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — A giant U.S. Air Force C-124 Globemaster is flying to Moscow to pick up America's Ambassador Charles Bohlen and family.

U.S. Air Force Europe headquarters said it was the first such flight by this type of plane to the Soviet capital.

The plane is expected to return to Berlin Thursday with the Bohlens and eight State Department officials from the U.S. Embassy.

Bohlen is returning to the United States for a new assignment as ambassador to the Philippines. He will be replaced by Llewellyn E. Thompson, who served as U.S. envoy to Austria.

The Globemaster took off from Berlin with a crew of 15 plus a Russian navigator and radio operator.

POST OFFICE URGING CONGRESS TO ABOLISH POSTAL SAVINGS

Lincoln Postmaster O. E. Jerner said the Post Office Department is urging Congress to end the postal savings system "because it has outlived its usefulness."

Postal savings deposits both nationally and locally have dropped rapidly, Jerner noted.

Locally, the savings total $2,168,530 today compared with $6,501,425 on deposit 10 years ago. Similarly the number of accounts has dropped to 2,514 as compared with 6,695.

Down To $1.7 Billion

Nationally, deposits are down to $1.7 billion from $3.4 billion in 1947 and declining about $20 million a month.

Jerner said that citizens now are investing funds in U.S. savings bonds and government-guaranteed bank and savings and loan deposits.

Congress, the postmaster said, has been urged to approve legislation permitting liquidation of postal savings in such a way there would be a minimum of inconvenience to depositors.

The Lincoln office recorded its highest postal savings balance of $6,504,529 in September, 1947. Postal savings have been in existence since 1911.

Bishop Elect Picks Coat Of Arms

A newly-designed coat of arms will be adopted by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. James V. Casey when he is consecrated titular Bishop of Citium and auxiliary to the Bishop of Lincoln on April 24.

Painstaking research into centuries of tradition goes into the creation of a new coat of arms for a bishop. Each detail of color and design is taken from the new bishop's family escutcheon, his patron saint or symbols of the episcopal office.

The bishop's coat of arms is for his use on church documents, stationery, vestments and over the door of his house.

Bishop-elect Casey's coat of arms contains a center chevron on which are two gold crosses. Above the chevron are two eagle heads and below is a red escallop shell.

Normally 3 Eagles

The Casey family coat of arms would normally contain three eagle heads, but one was displaced for the escallop shell, the distinguished crest of St. James the Greater. The saint was the baptismal patron of the Bishop-elect.

Since St. James was the first of the apostolic martyrs, the escallop is tinctured in red, the liturgical color appropriate for one who has shed his blood for Christ. Killed by the sword, (Acts 12:2), his body was buried at Jerusalem.

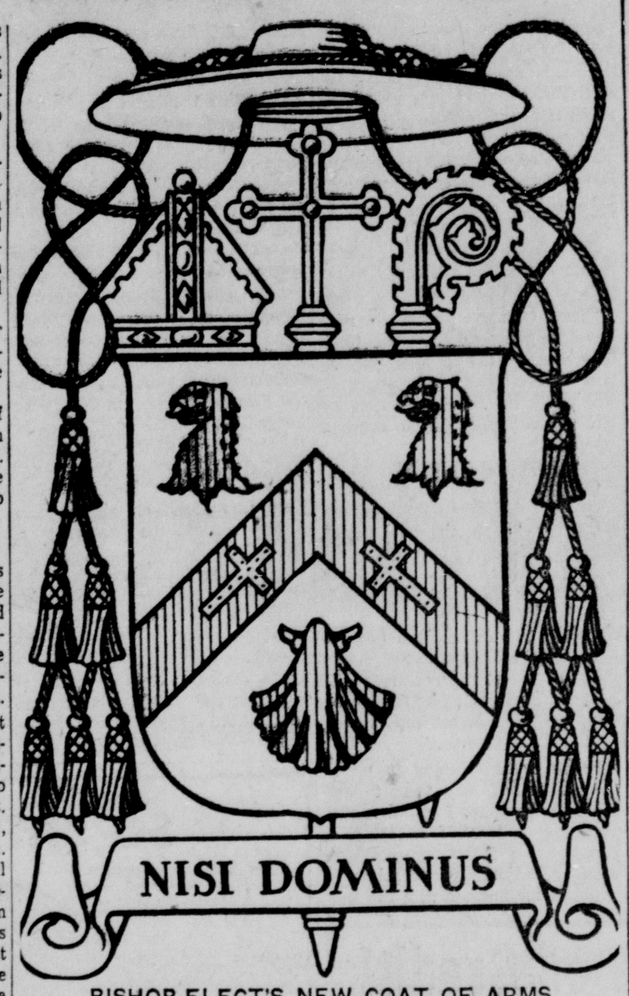
The origin of the escallop shell depends on the legend which relates that St. James appeared on a white horse, its housings charged with escallop shells, at the battle of Clavijo and led the Christians to victory against the Moors.

The coat of arms motto is "Nisi Dominus", which means "Unless the Lord" in translation. Taken from Psalm 126, the full text reads, "Unless the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build. Unless the Lord keep the city, he watcheth in vain that keepeth it." A motto briefly expresses an ideal, a program of life and the spirit of the one who selects it.

Expresses Confidence

By this motto the bishop expresses his confidence in Almighty God and his dependence on Him, as well as the realization that nothing can be done without God's grace and blessing.

A green pontifical hat is portrayed at the top of the design, with six like-tinctured tassels depending on each side, disposed in rows of three, two and one. The hat, the golden mitre, processional cross and crosier are the trappings of a prelate of the rank of bishop.



BISHOP-ELECT'S NEW COAT OF ARMS

Before 1870, the pontifical hat was actually worn at solemn cavalcades held on the occasion of the Pope's inauguration and at other papal pageants. Now its use is purely heraldic.

The Golden Cross

The golden Latin cross, twice repeated for symmetry on the chevron, is derived from the coat of arms of the Most Rev. Leo Binz, Archbishop of the Archdiocese of Dubuque where Bishop-elect Casey was born and baptized and where he served as priest for 17 years.

The coat of arms for a bishop is regarded as a sign of nobility in the general sense of high social distinction acquired by heredity. It is designed according to the principles of the ancient art and science of heraldry.

Bishop-elect Casey will aid Bishop Louis B. Kucera in his duties as head of the Catholic Diocese of Lincoln.

292 Bennet Dial Phones In Operation

New dial telephone equipment at the Bennet exchange, which has 292 phones, went into service this week, the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Company announced.

Village Board Chairman J. Sterling Glover made the first dial call to K. L. Lawson, LT&T general commercial superintendent, at Lincoln.

The new $50,000 installation will have a capacity of 200 lines, compared to the 113-line capacity of the former switchboard. Bennet has 22 per cent more telephones than in 1946.

With full selective ringing on the new exchange a rural subscriber will hear only his own ring on incoming calls.

Mrs. Fern S. Reid, who was chief operator and cashier, plans to retire and continue to live in Bennet. Leader's Grange will be the collection agent for payment of bills.

An outdoor public telephone in a booth near the new telephone building will provide 24-hour service.

Ash Gets No Backing In Opposition To Police-Fire Buddy Plan

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

No support was found among other members of the City Council of a statement by Councilman Pat Ash in opposition to the police and fire department integration and in favor of a vote next Monday on continuation of the plan.

Ash said he opposed the so-called "buddy plan" because it "will ruin the morale, efficiency and effectiveness of both departments."

Ash said he was willing to try the plan in hopes it might result in some economies to the city.

"In my opinion," he said, "the experiment failed and I am convinced that the 'buddy plan' represents false economy."

Young Men Look Elsewhere

The candidate for mayor in opposition to Mayor Bennett Martin said that the "buddy plan" has caused young men on the Fire Department to start looking elsewhere for a job. The older men with pension rights, he said, are not saying what they think of the plan.

Asked if the older men had told him they were dissatisfied or if he was just assuming that, Ash said "I am not assuming it."

Mayor Martin commented that he had "complete confidence in the committee that has been appointed by the City Council to study the operation of the 'buddy plan' that combines some phases of law enforcement and fire protection by the personnel of both departments.

'Will Not Change'

"Just because I am a candidate for re-election I will not change my position until this committee, in which I have confidence, makes its report.

"As a businessman, I would consider it irresponsible to make a snap decision before the facts were presented by the persons who have studied all phases of the problem."

To this statement, Ash countered that "as a candidate for office, I believe the people are entitled to know my position before the election rather than this summer when the committee reports."

The sharpest criticism of Ash's remarks came from Councilman Ray Osborn, originator of the "buddy plan" here in Lincoln.

'Vote-Getting'

"It looks to me like a very good move by Mr. Ash," Osborn said, "to kid a few firemen and policemen into getting their vote. As far as I know, Ash has not even shown enough interest in the plan so far to even look into it."

Osborn said that the plan was basically an economy measure. It will mean more money for the firemen, he said, and yet help the city by eliminating some of the need for additional personnel and demands for shorter working hours.

"Ash had better remember," Osborn said, "that he may have two more years on the Council and will have to work out a budget while facing a manpower shortage and a cut in working hours.

"If he wants to talk about cutting out the efficiencies that can be realized with the integration, why doesn't he talk also about the pending expenses of a 40-hour week and more personnel?"

Urges Vote Delay

Like other Council members, Osborn said he did not feel the Council should vote on the integration system until the special committee appointed to study the plan has made its report.

This is a committee composed of Osborn, Welfare and Safety Director Emmett Junge, Fire Chief E. Paul Feaster, Police Chief Joseph Carroll, Personnel Director Ray Ramsay, Co-ordinator James Mallon and Kenny Lewis, AFL-CIO labor representative.

Lewis said he, as a committee member, was not yet ready to report to the Council.

"The Council appointed us," Lewis said, "and I would think they would want to hear our report before taking any action. I was under the impression that we had at least until May to reach a conclusion."

Others Comment

Other committee member comments:

Carroll: "When the trial period is over, if the firemen are not willing workers on the plan I would think that the idea should be discarded."

Junge: "I am not in a position to form a conclusion on the 'buddy plan' as a member of a special committee appointed by the mayor to study the plan and report back to the City Council."

Feaster: "Everything is up to the Council. If they want to discontinue the plan, I would accept that just as I would accept it if they wanted it continued. While there are adjustments in salary to be made for firemen with the integration, I feel the plan has worked so far to our advantage."

About Same

Councilmen Joseph E. Fenton, Hugh Thorne and Chauncey W. D. Kinsey all made about the same comment. They said they did not feel the Council was ready to vote on the issue until the committee had made its report.

Councilman Rees Wilkinson was not reached for comment.

Ash also said he could "see no legitimate reason" for the Council postponing action on the Robert Lybarger case.

Lybarger was dismissed from the Fire Department in March for alleged "insubordination" when he refused to wear a pistol while serving in a police cruiser car under the "buddy plan." His refusal was based on his religious beliefs against the carrying of gun.

Here too, a majority of the Council said they would be ready to act on the Lybarger case after hearing a report from Feaster and Carroll.

The discharge was appealed to the personnel board which recommended the Council uphold the action.

County Taxes Cad Easterday Estate $3,175

The estate of Cad R. Easterday, a Lincoln general insurance agent who died March 28, 1956, has been assessed inheritance taxes of $3,175.83 by the Lancaster County Court.

His estate at death was valued at $384,852.76 in court. Allowances for claims, administration costs, legacies, and other fees totaled $44,469.18.

The court determined a tax of $1,415.65 due on a life estate of $146,364.90 left to his daughter, Mrs. Charlotte E. Kiesselbach of Bloomington, Ill, and a $5,000 legacy.

The two grandchildren, Julia Kiesselbach Mullican and Theodore Hyde Kiesselbach, were each left $98,009.29 and a tax of $880.09 was determined on each share.

Judge Herbert Ronin determined that $3,029.24 of the interitance tax was due Lancaster County and $147.59 was due Saline County.

READJUSTMENT NEED OUTLINED BY DR. GRUMM

"What is needed today is a complete readjustment of men to bring them into perfect relationship with God again," Dr. Arnold H. Grumm of St. Louis, Mo., first vice president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, told a Lenten service audience Wednesday noon.

Dr. Grumm spoke on the topic, "Forgiveness Is Necessary," in the first of three addresses he will give at Holy Week services sponsored by the Allied Council of Lutheran Churches in Lincoln. They will be held 12:05 p.m. through Friday at the Varsity Theater.

Commenting on the political corruption, crime and greed rampant today, he emphasized the necessity for divine forgiveness.

A perfect relationship with God, he said, "can only take place if God steps in and makes forgiveness on his terms and receives men again as his own, making them free from the slavery of sin, free and eager to live unto Him."

March Bond Sales Go Over February

W. B. Millard Jr., chairman of the Nebraska Savings Bond Committee, announced E and H bond sales of $10,242,943 for the month of March. This represents an increase of $3,140,297 over the month of February. Sales for the first quarter now total $24,821,144 this being 28.3 per cent of this year's goal.

The moisture in Nebraska the past 30 days holds promise of a good crop year and an increase in future bond sales, Millard stated.

To Housekeeper

CHICAGO (AP) — David A. Lucchesi, 80-year-old real estate dealer who died April 1, left the bulk of his $200,000 estate to his housekeeper.

Lucchesi left $189,000 to Miss Isabelle O'Malley, 56, his housekeeper for the last 15 years, "because of the many years of devotion and kindness rendered me."

Macmillan Wins A Vote Of Confidence On Defense

LONDON (AP) — Parliament Wednesday night approved the conservative Party government's plan for streamlined defense based on nuclear weapons.

Macmillan

It gave Prime Minister Macmillan's government a 309-258 vote of confidence on the issue, rejecting a Labor Party motion attacking "undue dependdence" on nuclear weapons and demanding postponement of British hydrogen bombs tests in the Pacific this summer.

Macmillan, who spoke just before the vote ending a two-day defense debate, said Britain is striving for general disarmament, but until that time "we must rely on the power of the nuclear deterrent or throw up the sponge."

Harsh Decision

"That is a harsh decision to make," Macmillan said, "But I believe most of my fellow countrymen would prefer to stand boldly on the deterrent than risk all the traditions of our religious and civil freedom."

Laborites, demanding postponement of the forthcoming H-bomb tests in the Christmas Island area "for a limited period," urged the government meanwhile to seek abolition of such tests through international agreement.

Macmillan flatly rejected this demand.

"My view is that if they (the H-bomb tests) were abandoned they would never be held," he said amid cheers from his supporters. "That is a responsibility which I am not prepared to take."

The government's new defense plan, pegged to American-made guided missiles fitted with nuclear warheads and with the ability to strike back powerfully at any aggressor, was approved by Commons shortly after the rejection of the Laborite attack.

The program will nearly halve Britain's armed forces over the next five years with an immediate saving of 70 million pounds (196 million dollars).

Macmillan emphasized the planned cuts in armed service personnel were forced by Britain's shaky financial situation.

"This policy is not intended to weaken us," he said. "It is intended to increase our real strength both from a military point of view and the point of view of the economy — which is the only base upon which military strength can ultimately depend."

Then, in a remark obviously aimed at critics in the United States and elsewhere of his government's decision to cut back armed forces manpower, Macmillan declared:

"I want to say to the outside world that we shall certainly not fail to honor all our commitments."

Bases To Be Defended

BONN, Germany (AP) — The British ambassador to West Germany, Sir Christopher Steel, said the civil population of Britain will not be defended from any future nuclear attack.

Instead, he declared, defenses will be concentrated on protecting the American and British air bases from which retaliatory attack would be launched.

He was explaining the new British defense plan to a luncheon of the Foreign Press Assn.

He said Britain was NATO's biggest air base.

Adenauer Makes Promise

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer again pledged that West Germany would not make its own atomic weapons.

He also assured the nation's nuclear scientists that they would not be called upon to work on the development of A-weapons.

That was the outcome of a day-long conference between Adenauer and five representatives of the nuclear scientists, who shook the government last week by demanding that West Germany should renounce all atomic weapons.

In a joint communique, the government promised it would concentrate its efforts at reaching "an agreement between all powers to avoid general atomic armament of the armies facing each other in East and West."

Local Bankruptcy Petitions Could Hit 20-Year High

Forty-eight bankruptcy petitions filed so far this year in U.S. District Court at Lincoln indicate a 20-year high could be set in 1957.

Projecting the present rate, the final total may reach 150 cases—the highest since the hard-time 30's.

The total would be well below the 260 recorded in 1934 but approaching the 178 bankruptcies during 1932 in the Lincoln division.

The trend for the past five years has shown a steady increase.

Recorded were 102 in 1956, 103 in 1955, 92 in 1954, 63 in 1953, and 49 in 1952.

There were 79 in 1951, 28 in 1948, and 54 in 1944, according to court records.

-Postal Cuts-

Ike Gave Go-Ahead

. . . To Summerfield

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said Wednesday he gave Postmaster General Summerfield "full approval" in advance to order the sweeping cuts in mail service which now have been largely restored.

Eisenhower told his news conference "it was perfectly clear" Summerfield didn't have the money to keep the postal system operating at full strength.

That situation was changed Tuesday, however, when Congress appropriated an extra 41 million dollars for the Post Office Department, a measure which Eisenhower quickly signed into law.

Minutes after the signing Summerfield announced that "within 24 hours mail service will be back to nearly the same basis" as before the cutbacks were ordered last Saturday.

Gave Full Approval

Referring to the temporary retrenchment, Eisenhower said: "Under the situation then existing, he acted with my complete approval. He came to me before he did it."

The President expressed no opinion, however, on what he termed "the real argument."

He defined this dispute as centering around the point whether Summerfield "spent money too rapidly."

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations Committee has contended Summerfield violated the law by not spending his 1957 funds evenly over the four quarters of the fiscal year.

Joseph Campbell, the comptroller general, ruled last week that the Post Office was technically within the law but had abused the spirit of the law. He put the blame for too-rapid spending on the budget Bureau.

Technical Details

Eisenhower said "all of that is past" now and in his opinion is "a matter of technical details" between the Post Office, the Budget Bureau and the comptroller general.

In any event, Summerfield went before Congress and asked for an extra appropriation of 47 million dollars which he said was needed to maintain full postal service during the balance of the fiscal year which ends June 30.

Settling for 41 million, Summerfield ordered Post Offices to reopen on Saturdays and make their customary deliveries on that day.

All other curtailments, with two exceptions, were lifted.

Summerfield ordered that mail deliveries in business areas be held to two a day, Monday through Friday, and one on Saturday. Three or four deliveries had been made before the cutback.

He also retained a limit of 8½ hours of daily window service in Post Offices except where officials feel "the needs and customs of any community justify longer hours."

These continued restrictions are necessary, Summerfield said, because the department will still have a "difficult job" to hold down on spending.

Indian Prisoner Feeding, State 40-Hour Week, Pay Problems Aired

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

The problems of feeding Indian prisoners, a 40-hour work week for state employes, and extra pay for state employes who must work over established hours, were considered at a public hearing before the Labor and Public Welfare Committee Wednesday but no action was taken on the measures.

LB 600, which provides for state aid for feeding Thurston County Indian prisoners, was sponsored by Gov. Anderson and introduced by Sen. Hal Bridenbaugh of Dakota City.

Under the bill, the county would pay the first $500 of jail feeding costs each month. The state would then pay any excess cost, but not to exceed $500 per month.

The Thurston County Indians were pictured as living in "rural slums" under standards of living "as low as you can possibly get."

The situation "breeds crime and laxity of moral standards," Sheriff John W. Elliott of Pender told the committee.

The result has been jail feeding costs for prisoners above the county's ability to pay, the sheriff and other county officials declared.

Thurston County's Indian problems were aggravated when the federal government several years ago withdrew its responsibility for law enforcement among Indians.

About one-fourth of Thurston county's population are Indians.

The financial plight also stems in part from the fact a sizeable portion of the county is Indian land, not subject to the usual real estate taxes, the committee was told.

Joining Elliott in appearing for the state aid bill were County Judge Charles E. Boughn; former State Senator George Weborg, now chairman of Thurston County's board of commissioners, and Sen. Bridenbaugh.

Weborg said about one dollar of every four dollars in the county's general fund now goes to the cause of law and order.

No Improvement Seen

Sheriff Elliott said he sees no chance for improvement in the Indian situation "for years to come."

LB's 100 and 396, affecting state employes, both had been heard and reported out earlier but were returned for rehearing after being amended on the floor.

LB 100, the 40-hour work week bill, was amended to cover almost all state employes, including those at state institutions under the Board of Control. In original form, the bill had excluded employes under boards and commissions.

Proponents contended that the net results of a 40-hour work week would be economy, by improving morale and cutting down employe turnover. They also noted that the bill is "permissive" only, and does not provide for additional appropriations.

None of the bills heard drew opposition.

Legislative Council Probe Of Lending And Credit Laws, Practices Proposed

Four senators Wednesday proposed a Legislative Council investigation of lending and credit laws and practices in the state.

The proposal, in the form of the 21st resolution of the current session, came from Senators Mervin Bedford of Geneva, John P. Munnelly of Omaha, Dwain Williams of Broken Bow and Monroe Bixler of Harrison.

No action was taken, since legislative rules call for a one-day layover before votes are taken on resolutions. But the Legislature adopted two other resolutions introduced earlier.

Desegregation

Resolution 18, by Sen. John Adams Sr. of Omaha, expressing support of the U.S. Supreme Court desegregation decision, won 41-0 approval.

Approved 39-0 was Resolution 20, by Sen. Munnelly condemning movies which "tend to corrupt the morals of our youth" and the sale of objectionable comic books.

Sen. Terry Carpenter who counts the movie business among his western Nebraska enterprises, said he does not oppose the resolution but said theaters "only give to the people what they want."

'Serious Doubt'

The resolution asking a study of loans and financing practices said "serious doubt exists as to the legality of the practices frequently employed in the handling of retail credit transactions and the making of small loans at rates of interest in excess of the maximum rate generally chargeable."

The proposed seven-member Legislative Council Committee would study and investigate:

1. All phases of present laws permitting the making of small loans at rates of interest in excess of the maximum rate generally chargeable.
2. Current proposals to permit the making of such loans by persons, firms or corporations not now permitted to do so.
3. Practices that have developed in the handling of retail credit transactions.

Pickup Service Restored

The Nebraska Railway Commission Wednesday granted the Burlington Railroad authority to restore pickup and delivery service at Orleans, Neb.

Valentine, Norfolk RR Board Hearings Set

The State Railway Commission Wednesday set hearings at Norfolk and Valentine on requests by the Chicago & North Western Railway for authority to cancel pickup and delivery arrangements at certain points in Nebraska.

The Norfolk hearing is slated Tuesday at the Norfolk city hall, while the Valentine hearings will be held next Wednesday at the courthouse there.

In other action, the commission:

Granted authority to the York County Rural Public Power District to construct, operate and maintain an electric transmission line in York and Fillmore counties.

Granted authority to the Cuming County Rural Public Power District at West Point to construct, operate and maintain an electric transmission line in Cuming and Stanton counties.

Talkative Female Witness Presents Contrast In Racket Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A talkative woman Teamsters Union member presented a contrast with three Scranton, Pa., men, all convicted dynamiters, who balked at answering questions put by the special Senate Rackets Committee Wednesday.

The men—Robert Hubshman, convicted Teamsters terrorist, George Murphy, another Scranton Teamsters Union member, and Joseph Malloy, a nonmember whose brother Robert is the union's business agent—all invoked the Fifth Amendment.

But pretty witness Helen Canfield told with almost girlish gusto how she had secretly tape-recorded conversations which named high Teamster officials in Scranton, took the tapes to the district attorney, and then found herself arrested for "obstructing justice."

"I thought I was serving justice," she said.

Corroboration

Miss Canfield's dark hair bobbed and her eyes sparkled as she corroborated big chunks of testimony by her friend Paul Bradshaw, Tuesday's star witness. Bradshaw was the first to be convicted in the dynamiting in 1954 of a Scranton home being built with nonunion labor.

The 27-year-old brunette said she knew all the Teamster members involved—"they were nice boys"—and they had told her of other deeds including deflating tires of nonunion trucks, stink-bombing a nonunion bakery and putting sugar in gasoline to damage engines.

The "obstruction of justice" charge still is pending against her, she said, and "I wouldn't be a bit surprised" if it now comes to trial, because of her testimony here.

"I doubt it," said Sen. Mundt (R-SD) with some emphasis.

'Took The Rap'

Bradshaw said Tuesday he had agreed to "take the rap" for the dynamiting because union officials had promised he'd be "taken care of."

The officials double-crossed him, Bradshaw said, so he and Miss Canfield—who candles eggs in a warehouse and is a Teamsters Union member—rigged the tape recorder in her apartment and invited union members up to talk.

Miss Canfield said the tape helped show that Bradshaw's role in the dynamiting was incidental, that others rigged and set off the charge and that union officials knew of the scheme to sabotage the construction job.

Conflicting

Conflicting testimony came from William Munley, the man who later confessed actually setting off the blast. Munley said Teamster officials never talked to him about the dynamiting—that Bradshaw asked him to do the job.

When asked why he had exonerated Bradshaw in the conversations recorded by Miss Canfield, Munley said he was trying to help Bradshaw out.

Munley said Miss Canfield was Bradshaw's "girl friend," that she was threatening to leave him because of the dynamiting episode, and that Bradshaw had appealed to him to go to her apartment and talk to her in Bradshaw's behalf. He agreed, he said.

Laughter

Spectators roared with laughter when Miss Canfield described a 1954 union election. Murphy earlier Wednesday refused to say whether he voted "five, six or seven" times in the election, as previously testified.

"Oh, yes, I was asked to vote twice myself," she reported. "Mr. (Robert) Malloy asked me to."

Actually she only voted once, she said, and "Mr. Mailoy voted for me."

The shapely witness explained it would have been impossible for her to walk back among the men in the union hall and vote a second time.

"I'm a woman and I'd be noticed," she said. "I wore a red wool suit and was rather snug in certain areas."

Postal Crew Transfer Date Is Saturday

Lincoln Star Special

WICHITA, Kan. — Postal transport service crew members in Lincoln — including 98 railroad clerks, 11 terminal clerks and 15 substitutes — will begin operation Saturday as a part of Omaha District 1.

This transfer date was confirmed Wednesday by Frank Barr, regional director.

Along with these government employes, the district change will apply to 116 mail messenger and 118 star route carriers, whose work is by contract, Barr explained.

Just 'Paper Change'

However, the transfer from Lincoln District 3 to Omaha District 1 is "merely a paper change," he pointed out, "since the crew members will continue the same runs, operate on the same schedules and receive the same pay" they now are receiving.

Only persons who will be reassigned are four Lincoln District administrative employes, and their reassignment will not be made until May 1, Barr said. He indicated they will be detailed temporarily to Omaha until the transfer reorganization is completed.

Frank Gillette, assistant Lincoln Postal Transport Service manager, will remain in Lincoln with no change in his authority or jurisdiction, he said.

Barr explained that orders for the crew's transfer from Lincoln District 3 to Omaha District 1 had been issued by the Wichita Regional Office before he was requested last week by Nebraska Senator Carl T. Curtis to delay the move.

State Funeral Directors To Hear Mueller

Election of officers and a speech by a U.S. Chamber of Commerce official are highlights of the Thursday closing-day program of the Nebraska Funeral Directors Association convention in Lincoln.

The election is scheduled for the afternoon session and an address on "Your Organization and You" by Frank Mueller, former Nebraskan now with the U.S. Chamber, will follow.

Paul Sharrar of Falls City, will serve as chairman of the association's annual banquet Thursday evening.

A public relations roundtable discussion and a talk on "Merchandising for Better Gross Sales" by Dr. Charles H. Nichols of the National Foundation of Funeral Services at Evanston, Ill., were included on Wednesday's program. Mrs. Sam Wall of Hampton and Mrs. Betty Sheaff of Lincoln were co-chairmen of a women's luncheon.

"Felt I'd Burst From Pressure and Pain of Monthly Cramps 'Til New Tablet Did What Aspirin Couldn't!"

Model Photo

Writes Mrs. L. H., Kansas City, Mo., "Thought my body would burst from pressure and pain of monthly cramps. Nothing I tried helped until I found Pinkham's Tablets! Feel so much better now!"

For millions of women who suffer tortures of cramps and nervous tension every month, a new day has dawned! An amazing new tablet, developed especially to relieve this female discomfort, brings greater relief than aspirin for these miseries!

Relief for 3 out of 4 tested!

Doctors report amazing results. For 3 out of 4 women tested, pains and cramps were stopped or strikingly relieved. Even on the first day, many had no nagging headaches, backaches, other functional distress. Were less jittery before their period.

This new discovery offers more relief than aspirin because it contains not just 1 or 2 ingredients but a unique combination of medicines. Unlike "general purpose" remedies, it acts on the cause of distress. Has remarkable power to calm uterine contractions; also works through a woman's sympathetic nervous system.

Called "Lydia Pinkham's Tablets," they're at all drugstores without prescription. Try handy Pinkham's Tablets. See if you don't feel worlds better! See if you don't escape much of the irritability and discomfort—before and during those "difficult days." (Also liquid Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.)

Committee Hears, Holds 5-Mile Speed Limit Hike

The Legislature's Miscellaneous Subjects Committee heard but deferred action on a measure which would increase Nebraska highway speed limits by five miles an hour.

LB 601, introduced by the Public Works Committee at the request of Sen. Willard Waldo of De Witt, would increase daytime speed limits from 60 to 65 miles an hour, and 50 to 55 miles an hour at night.

In his arguments for the bill, Sen. Waldo contended that an increased speed limit would help expedite traffic as well as attract tourist trade to the state.

He maintained that "in this day and age, we should revise speed laws along with automobile and highway improvements."

"We want to move traffic and "and it's our feeling that increased speeds would not change the safety picture."

Also speaking on behalf of the measure was M. J. Hankins of Stanton, and C. J. Mortensen, president of the Nebraska State Bank at Ord.

The only opposition was sounded by Britt Pryor, safety director for the Nebraska Public Power District.

Pryor said it was "silly to try and stop slaughter on the highways when we don't do anything about it. We're wasting our time with legislation like this," he added.

He cited a National Safety Council report linking speeding to accidents, and he also refuted a charge made by Hankins that the council was an organization "comprised of insurance companies."

In his rebuttal, Sen. Waldo noted that new speed limit signs for the state would cost Nebraska $10,000 for new signs.

The committee planned to hold an executive session on LB 601 early next week.

Population Shifts Putting Ag Colleges In New Era—Hardin

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Shifts in America's population pattern are leading U.S. agricultural colleges into a new era of educational responsibility, Dr. Clifford M. Hardin, University of Nebraska chancellor, said here Wednesday evening.

He addressed a banquet audience gathered to honor Dean Harry J. Reed who retires this year as head of Purdue University's School of Agriculture.

Chancellor Hardin, a Purdue alumnus and former student and associate of Dr. Reed, paid tribute to the dean as one of America's outstanding agricultural leaders who have helped pilot agricultural education from a pioneer status through an era in which scientific agriculture has become a reality.

Two population factors now at work, Chancellor Hardin said, are certain to have powerful influence on the responsibilities, aims, and curriculae of agricultural colleges.

The 2 Factors

They are, first, the continued decline in the farm population, and, second, the growing shortage of workers in their 20's and early 30's. The young worker shortage, he said, results from the low birthrate of the 1930's and will continue for at least 15 years.

The growing size and complexity of the effective American farm operation, Dr. Hardin said, are making college training increasingly important to farm operators.

"The young man who expects to operate a farm successfully during the next 20 years will have to draw heavily on a basic knowledge of economics, chemistry, botany, and genetics," Dr. Hardin said. "Whether he has the knowledge himself or employs somebody else who has it, the agricultural colleges will still have the job of developing it."

Most agricultural colleges, Dr. Hardin pointed out, are members of the American land-grant college system which was inaugurated to broaden the scope of higher education as a means of meeting new needs of a growing nation.

First Objective

"The first big objective was to help train people for the advent of the era of scientific agricultural production and to promote the research necessary to bring that era into being," Dr. Hardin said.

"Though this initial objective has been accomplished in large measure," he said, "that fact in no way alters the basic responsibility of the land-grant colleges to extend educational opportunity and they still have the task of advancing the line of agricultural progress through research and training."

The mission of the agricultural college is becoming increasingly complex because of the increasing demand and need for young people well grounded in the basic sciences and also because of the rapidly expanding commercial enterprises which either serve the farm or are concerned with the marketing or processing of its products, the chancellor said.

General Objectives

"Developments of recent years," he said, "have defined three general objectives for the agricultural school: First, to train farmers for farming; second, to help supply the great need for trained scientists; and, third, to fill the trained manpower requirements of the rapidly growing agricultural businesses and industries."

The importance of achieving these objectives, Dr. Hardin said, is emphasized by the fact that production of the average American worker must approximately double by 1975 if the U.S. standard of living is to maintain its present rate of advance.

The degree of success which agricultural schools attain in the accomplishment of their objectives, he said, will depend on their ability to get qualified teachers; on their willingness to adjust curriculae and methods; on adequate financial support; and on the continued development of capable college leadership.

Miss Sagan Better

PARIS (AP) — Novelist Francoise Sagan, 21, is "getting better and better every day, every hour," a hospital spokesman said Wednesday.

Miss Sagan, author of "Bonjour Tristesse" and "A Certain Smile," was seriously injured in an automobile accident Sunday when her British racing car went out of control and turned over.

CHEWING TOBACCO, CIGARS ESCAPE TAXING ATTEMPT

Sen. Hans Jensen of Aurora Wednesday suggested the Legislature put taxes of one cent an ounce on chewing tobacco or snuff, one cent on each cigar selling for 10 cents or less and two cents on a cigar selling for more than 10 cents.

But the suggestion, which came in the form of an amendment to LB 130, was voted down 16-21.

LB 130, Sen. Terry Carpenter's bill to raise cigarette taxes one cent a package, was up for final passage when Jensen obtained permission to return it to select file for the specific amendment.

'Out The Window'

Carpenter expressed fear that the amendment was designed merely to bring about defeat of the bill and Sen. Charles Tvrdik of Omaha, pointing to enforcement problems incident to a tax on cigars, said, "I'm afraaid if you adopt this amendment, LB 130 will go out the window."

LB 130 took up much of the last session before the Legislature's Easter recess, but the net result was simply the addition of the emergency clause to make the bill effective on the governor's signature.

Jensen moved to strike the enacting clause, which has the effect of killing a bill, but lost 8-28.

Then Sen. Willard Waldo of DeWitt moved to indefinitely postpone the bill, also equivalent of killing, but that move lost on a voice vote.

Commission Increase

Sen. August Wagner of Columbus then attempted to increase from five to seven per cent the commission allowed wholesalers for affixing stamps on cigarette packages. He withdrew the motion after it became obvious the amendment was headed for defeat on a machine vote.

All these maneuvers took place after the bill had been returned to general file, first floor plateau on the way to final passage.

A 25-11 vote then advanced it from general file.

THREE BILLS PASS

The Legislature Wednesday passed these bills on final reading:

LB 392 (Waggoner)—Eliminating requirement that claims against a county be verified by affidavit, but prescribing penalties for false claims. (40-0).

LB 201 (Judiciary)—Waving legal publication of notice of hearing in certain trust proceedings where beneficiaries are known and waive notice. (42-0).

LB 153 (Moulton, Cole, Otto)—Providing for registration of land surveyors and establishing qualifications. (27-15).

Labor Chief Charges Federal Allocation Of Salk Shots Blocked

NEW YORK (AP) — A labor leader charged Wednesday that the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the U.S. Public Health Service and the American Medical Assn. joined in blocking federal allocation of the Salk polio vaccine.

Leo Perlis, director of the AFL-CIO's Community Services Activities, also said organized medicine "appeared to be more concerned with getting full payment for each Salk vaccine shot administered than with the wholesale prevention of poliomyelitis."

Spokesmen for the foundation and local medical organizations denied both allegations.

Perlis, in letters to AFL-CIO Community Services Activities officials in more than 60 cities, said a current shortage of Salk vaccine followed an AMA fight "against a federally operated allocation system for poliomyelitis vaccine."

'Error'

In Washington, the Public Health Service said Perlis was "in error." A spokesman said there was a big backlog of the vaccine build up last fall, that a drive was instituted to get the supply used up and then a shortage developed.

It was after the shortage became an apparent problem, the Health Service spokesman said, that federal and state officials met with foundation and AMA officials to see what steps should be taken.

At the meeting in Washington, on March 30, the Health Service said, it was decided unanimously that an allocation system would "serve no useful purpose since it was difficult to allocate anything we didn't have."

Instead, the Health Service said, it was decided to keep vaccine manufacturers up to date on future needs and to recommend that the vaccine go to communities that had a program ready to start and that first priority for the vaccine go to the 0-19 year-old group and to pregnant women.

Lack of Interest

Raymond H. Barrows, executive director of the foundation, said the current shortage would be over by the end of the month. It was caused, he said, by lack of interest of the public last fall which caused manufacturers to cut down vaccine production.

Barrows said during the field trials of the vaccine, doctors administered vaccine without charge to 500,000 children, and also have given their services to many free clinics since then.

Dr. Samuel Frant, administrator of anti-polio campaign of the five-county medical societies of New York City, said his group "set up a program of administering vaccine to all indigent groups free of charge."

"In New York County for the past three months," he added, "until vaccine was no longer available commercially, physicians went without fee to any group that set up a program, and administered the vaccine free of charge."

'Twas The 18th Of April, '75

"T'WAS the 18th of April, '75—" et cetera, et cetera and et cetera—And in case you aren't familiar with the date we'll pass on the information that it has to do with the famous ride of Paul Revere—Around Lexington, Mass., April 18th is called Patriot's Day, but we must admit that Paul Revere, outside of the history books and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's poem, had not been duly recognized in Lincoln—until Wednesday evening.

On Wednesday Richard Childs celebrated a birthday anniversary—and back in the heart of the American Revolution, Lexington, Mass., from whence Mr. and Mrs. Childs moved to Lincoln, the birthday celebrant always shared honors with Paul Revere. The custom will continue, we hope, and who knows? Paul Revere may take his rightful place in the hearts of his countrymen—even in Lincoln.

On Wednesday evening 14 guests were invited to a Richard Childs-Paul Revere anniversary dinner when Mrs. Childs entertained. The party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Weingarten due to the fact that today Mr. and Mrs. Childs and their family are moving into their new home at 3401 So. 37th St.

SPEAKING of parties and new addresses reminds us of the surprise house-warming on Saturday evening when a group of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoppe's friends walked into the Hoppes' new home at 2740 Garden Rd., with dinner food all prepared.

WE have a thriving guest department this week—Just heard that Mr. and Mrs. James Clark of Dallas, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Fitzsimmons of Minneapolis, will be arriving on Friday to spend the week-end as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Cook.

* * *

THEN we learned that Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Marvin and their children, Joe, Jr., Kathy, John, Mike and Dan, arrived on Tuesday from Brainerd, Minn., to spend Easter with Dr. Marvin's mother, Mrs. G. M. Marvin; and Mrs. Marvin's sister, Mrs. Betty Shurtleff, and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Folsom.

UNDERSTAND THAT Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dosek are to have a guest sixsome at their home this Easter week-end—The group will include their sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Bennett (Philomene Dosek) and their small son, Brendan, of Kansas City, Mo.; and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Scoville (Joanne Dosek) and their son, Tommy, of Sioux City.

WE HEAR that the Fremont Bassinet Club has welcomed a new member—Miss Sally Kathryn Bloom—who arrived on Tuesday, April 16, and who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bloom of Fremont. Among the young lady's ardent admirers are her two sisters, Marnie and Barbara—her brother, Bob—and two grandmothers, Mrs. Henry Bloom and Mrs. John Bogan, both of Lincoln.

THE STAR IN SUBURBIA

We found our Eastborough Suburbia Wheel in fine shape this morning, and ready to spin for new highlights. We must admit that we were very lucky, for the arrow never missed hitting the target for news! First of all it designated a setting for coffee — then found its spin landing on Easter holiday headlines — and the last few points of aim hit areas of entertainment, activity and newcomers.

Tuesday morning at the Robert Longman home was the setting for an informal gathering of mothers and their children for coffee and fun. Mrs. Longman and her young tots, Judy and Jackie, had as their guests, Mrs. Rex Knowles, Mrs. Jack Robson, Mrs. Gene Eno, Mrs. Bob Olson, Mrs. Jim Charroin, Mrs. Frank Major and their children. Understand that the group of mothers and their children meet each month for such an affair.

Plans for summer camp activities are sporting the news headlines this Thursday morning. When the Eastborough Camp Fire mothers recently met at the home of the club's leader, Mrs. G. E. Robison, the afternoon was devoted to a discussion of Camp Kiwanis in Milford. Miss Rita Lehr, Camp Fire Director, displayed slides and talked about the camp's activities. Several of the camp fire girls from the Eastborough area will be attending camp this summer. Assisting Mrs. Robison with the scout troop in the Suburb is Mrs. E. J. Marty.

The approaching holiday week-end seems to be increasing the guest list in the Eastborough community. Arriving on Friday to visit Mr. and Mrs. James Farkas will be Mrs. Farkas' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Parkins, Bruce and Roger. The guests, from Battle Creek, Mich., will return to their home on Tuesday.

Also spending Easter with Suburb relatives will be Mrs. Mary Strong, who has been visiting in the community since Friday, April 5. Mrs. Strong, who resides in Mountain, Wisc., is a guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strong and their children, Cindy and Kevin.

In courtesy to Mrs. John Faltermeier, Mrs. Robert Strong, Mrs. Clarence Umphreys and Mrs. William Lien entertained at a surprise pink and blue shower on Wednesday evening. Guests at the Strong home besides Mrs. Faltermeier were Mrs. Robert Talbot, Mrs. Carrol Brayfield, Mrs. Ton Healey, Mrs. Arlo Skinner, Mrs. Stan Perry, Mrs. Dean Faulder, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Victor Anderson, Mrs. Edwin Drueke, Mrs. Lyle Robinson, Mrs. Ivan Cidlik, Mrs. William Crouse and Mrs. Donald Houy.

Visiting a moment or two with Mrs. Robert E. Wepler was very pleasant, for we learned that she and her family are one of the newest additions to the newcomers list in Eastborough. Mr. and Mrs. Wepler and their three children, Larry, Cary and Randy moved into their home at 545 Eastborough Lane on April 1. The family recently resided in Aurora, Ill.

Easter holiday plans are being made by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schwab and their children, Allen, Roger and Marvin. It will be on Friday morning when they will leave for Plymouth to visit Mr. Schwab's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Casper Schwab and also will be the guest of Mrs. Schwab's sister, Mrs. Ray Lammel.

A special vacation trip will be made by Mrs. Robert Robinson, Bobby, Mary Pat, Peter, Timmy and Nancy during the Easter holidays. The Robinsons will tour to Versailles, Mo., where they will visit Capt. Robinson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Robinson and Mrs. Robinson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Geiger. During their five-day trip they also will be the guests of other family friends and relatives in Versailles.

Club Meets

The Jolly Thursday Homemakers Extension Club met recently for a 1 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. Charles Skinner. The lesson on outdoor cooking was presented by Mrs. Skinner and Mrs. Nolan Waggoner.

At the next meeting, to be held May 23, the members will practice outdoor cooking at Antelope Park.

PTA Meeting

The monthly meeting of District 126 PTA, originally planned for Friday evening, April 19, has been postponed and will be held Friday evening, April 26.

The group will elect officers and a program will be given by fourth grade pupils.

Save Your Heart

"Use your head to save your heart," may be the best advice in the world but when you are so used to reaching and pulling, or burrowing in a drawer that is almost at floor level, it takes practice and thought to overcome old habits.

When the doctor tells you to sit down to your work, it takes real planning to carry out his orders. But why wait until you have a heart condition to learn to take life easy? Learn to save yourself now and you may never join the ranks of America's statistics on heart illness.

Don't put the pots and pans you use most frequently in the farthest corner of a deep kitchen drawer, even if they do fit in that drawer the best. Don't hide your utensils where it's a mad scramble to find them before you can start a meal.

Emulate Mrs. Vernon Swanson (above), a heart patient, who is attending the adult home and family life class to learn how easy it is to do the job sitting down. Have a "pull-out" work counter of the right height in your kitchen, or a low table on wheels for easy moving, and SIT DOWN to the job with utensils neatly arranged on a peg board in handy reach.

If you're a heart patient, you learn not to stretch to the highest cupboards in the kitchen, or to stand "on your head" to find something in a bottom drawer. Practice now and avoid being a heart patient.

Club Hears Book Review

The Unicameral Ladies Club met for luncheon Monday afternoon at the Hotel Cornhusker after which Mrs. R. W. Hill reviewed the book, "I Chose A Parson", by Phyllis Steark.

Mrs. A. W. Swanson and Mrs. Arnold Ruhnke were hostesses for the afternoon, and guests included Mrs. Tyler Edgecomb of Geneva; Mrs. John Mekota, Crete; and from Lincoln, Mrs. Victor Anderson, Mrs. H. Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts Ready For Easter

We're pretty sure that there will be no lack of Easter chapeaux in any home where the feminine small fry is a member of the Oda-Smak-Kah-Wee Camp Fire Girls group. The Oda-Smak-Kah-Wee girls who, according to Indian language are "friendly, merry-hearted maidens" spent last Monday afternoon making Easter bonnets for their mothers. The cutting, the stitching and fitting took place in the basement of St. James Methodist Church, with Mrs. Mary Macrow, the group's leader, first assistant in the millinery project.

Sharing their Easter holiday fun with the patients at the Lincoln Orthopedic Hospital on Wednesday were the members of Brownie Troop 156 who visited the hospital late in the afternoon with gifts of traditional Easter baskets and boxes and boxes of cookies.

Prescott X-ray Series Changed

Plans for the chest X-rays for parents of Prescott School pupils on Thursday evening, April 18, have had to be postponed. The X-rays will be taken, instead, the evenings of April 23 and 25, at the city health department.

VISITOR CALLS STATE 'HOME OF FREEZE AND BRAVE'

(Phyllis Battelle, columnist who writes "Assignment: America" for International News Service, wrote this column after a visit to Lincoln, where she was speaker at a banquet sponsored by the University of Nebraska chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, professional journalism fraternity for women.)

It is here in Nebraska—home of the freeze and the brave—that lively women should weave their nests.

Not that Nebraska needs more women; it's already got enough to keep the competition tough and the men tender.

Miss Battelle

But the fact is that more women need Nebraska. For here on the windy plains, and within the boundaries of the occasional towns, a female's life-span is longer than in any other state of the 48. Even if a woman is only "average" of wind and limb—and what self-respecting lady would admit to that?—she figures to live to be 74.

Penicillin

It's curious, considering that in some states where the cotton is high and the livin' is easier, an average girl has got to be pumped full of penicillin to endure to such a venerable and vital statistic.

"You'd think people would stop making cracks about Nebraska weather and wake up," snapped a woman who has at least 25 years to go. "We get mad when people talk about our climate. It gets cold in the winter, certainly. It gets hot in the summer, sure.

"But when you look at the vital statistics, every year you find that this kind of climate is what makes people hardy and happy!" Variety (from blizzard to sizzle) is not only the spice of life, it's a tonic to the system.

'Least Comfortable'

Nebraskans have tended to be a mite sensitive on the subject of weather since Dr. Richard Page, a Chicago researcher, dubbed their capital, Lincoln, the city with "about the least comfortable year-round climate in the U.S." Using a theory he called "thermidity," Page analyzed extremes of hot and cold in each of the large cities of the 48 and came out with his comfort count.

It wasn't flattering, and Gov. Victor Anderson's immediate response was, "Certainly it's the healthiest climate. Look at the figures."

A look at the 1956 figures shows that the life expectancy of women, at 74, is tops in the country; that the life expectancy of Nebraska men is 68.2 years, making them only two-tenths of a year less durable than South Dakota, the leader in male longevity; that Lincoln has one of the highest literacy rates of any city in the U.S.— which appears to prove that temperature extremes not only keep the body functioning huskily, but keep the brain racing vigorously as well.

Smarter

The percolating-brain theory is also borne out by the fact that "the elements of nature have made the population smarter than the average guy in a less rugged climate," according to the local lady.

Nebraskans still tell of the blizzard of '88, when nature seemed intent upon wiping them out. But, in the struggle for survival, gentlefolk were turned into geniuses. One woman schoolteacher held her pupils together in the schoolhouse till the roof blew off, then tied them together with the girls' skipping ropes and led them into a stack of wild hay, where they burrowed till the storm was through.

In the effete East, in the lethargic South, in warmly heated parlors and cool, quiet patios, people today are living in comfort.

. . . But not nearly, as any Nebraskan can tell you, so long.

Ready Reserve Status Awaits GOC At Omaha Filter Center

OMAHA (AP)—Improvements and extensions in early warning radar will make it possible to reduce the ground observer corps participation in the Omaha Filter Center to a ready reserve status, it was announced. The Omaha center has been on a 24-hour operational status.

Capt. Alvin W. Jahn, commander of the Omaha center, said the specific date would be announced after a conferenec in which Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas state civil defense directors, state GOC coordinators and Brig. Gen. Clifford H. Rees, 20th air division commander, take part.

R. H. McCann, civilian administrator of the Omaha center, said "this is the word for which our volunteers have eagerly waited. Now that the state of our defense is such that our round-the-clock operation can cease, our workers will confine their efforts to the development of "alert teams," ready on a moment's notice to occupy all posts."

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

BAERING DOWN ON THE NEWS By Arthur 'Bugs' Baer

Duplication of effort has become an exact science in the land of the freeze and the home of the brake.

We diagnose it as a Washington antipathy to having two people do the right thing at the same time.

In the Army they raise duplication of endeavor higher than goose-stepping. They make three of everything in order to get one. The Navy is no farther in back of 'em than a tow-rope in a flooded cellar.

☆ ☆ ☆

Barnum turned duplication of effort into a nutritious racket with Chang and Eng, the Siamese twinlets. They were joined at the midriff by a carboniferous ribbon of red tape.

☆ ☆ ☆

Duplication of effort is a many-splintered thing. It attains its finest hour in windshield wipers, philharmonic orchestras and Japanese acrobatic troupes.

☆ ☆ ☆

But it's discouraged in Washington where their motto is, "We always get it right the second time." If at first you don't succeed there will be another bus along in a minute.

Tigers Beaten By A's

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Reliever Wally Burnette shut out Detroit for five and a third innings while his Kansas City teammates came from behind and nosed out the Tigers 5-4 Wednesday, sweeping the two-game season opening series.

With all other American League teams idle, the victory gave last year's cellar-dwelling A's undisputed possession of first place for at least one day.

Freshman Manager Jack Tighe used four pitchers in a vain effort to choke off the hard-hitting Kansas City club and earn his first major league victory. But the Athletics got to two of them for 10 hits, including home runs by Hector Lopez and Harry Simpson and a triple by Bob Cerv. That was enough to win.

Stan's String May Be Cut

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan (The Man) Musial, just 47 games from the National League consecutive game record, has a muscle injury in his back and may miss the St. Louis Cardinals' home opener with the Chicago Cubs Thursday night.

The 36-year-old Musial suffered the injury during his big 4-for-4 hitting day in the opening victory at Cincinnati. Wednesday's game with the Redlegs was rained out giving Musial a break.

Musial

"If we had played," trainer Bob Bauman said, "I don't think Stan would have been able to go."

Bauman said whirlpool and ultra-sonic treatments helped somewhat, but added "the way it looked, I'd say he's doubtful.

"Still, knowing the man and his intense desire to play, I reserve judgment."

With 775 straight games behind him, Stan is closing in on Gus Suhr's league record of 822.

Fisher Tosses Shot 58 Feet To Pace Beatrice Track Win

Over—And Down

Larson, Schafer Set Prep Marks

Northeast's Gary Larson and Hastings' J. D. Schafer turned in top performances in the Mid-East Conference track meet here Wednesday, but Beatrice took team honors with the help of Larry Fisher.

Beatrice scored 73½ points, followed by Hastings with 69½, Fairbury with 41, Lincoln Northeast with 40½ and Lincoln Southeast with 4½.

Fisher, powerful weight man, won the shot and discus. He recorded a tremendous 58-0 effort with the shot, smashing all existing Nebraska prep marks, save his own 59-0 toss in an intra-mural meet. He won the discus with a 153-6 heave, beating the '57 prep leader Curtis Rutt of Hastings. Fisher's discus toss is the second best this year.

Larson clipped off the fastest half mile clocking of the year. He was timed in 2:01.6.

Schafer bettered his own 440-yard dash time with a speedy :51.2 record.

Northeast's Bob Els high jumped 5-11¼ for a meet record and the best mark recorded by a Nebraska prepster this spring.

Beatrice's victory avenged a loss to Hastings in the Central Nebraska Invitational.

Chiefs' Mound Staff Gets Help

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla.—Lincoln's pitching hopes for the 1957 Western League season took a terrific jump here late Wednesday when it was announced that Jim Duffalo had been optioned to the Chiefs by Columbus of the American Association.

Duffalo, 21, is one of the prize moundsmen in the Pittsburgh Organization. A righthander, Jim won a total of 33 games, while losing only 12, in the past two years — his only professional experience.

Both Larry Shepard and General Manager Dick Wagner were highly pleased with the news and Shepard said, "Jim has a fine record and I'm sure he'll be a big asset to our pitching staff."

A native of Du Bois, Pa., Duffalo is 6-1 and weighs 170. He broke into baseball in 1955 with Brunswick of the Class D Georgia-Florida League and posted a 17-4 record. He started 19 games and finished 17 of them, hurling 201 innings. Jim fanned 124 that season and walked only 67 while posting a sterling 2.64 earned run average.

Last season found him in the Class B Carolina League with Kinston and he registered another sensational season, despite the fact that Kinston was "a very bad seventh place club."

Jim started 22 games, finished 16 and had a 16-8 record. He pitched 217 innings, fanned 112 and walked 84. His ERA was 2.94.

"Duffalo has very good control and his earned run averages have been very exceptional considering his experience," Shepard said.

He is one of the stars of the winter who is really causing a stir here.

It's very unusual for very many players listed on a club's winter roster to make the grade in the spring. Usually those on the winter list are shipped to lower leagues.

But Shepard has found some top-notch hustlers among the boys who reported to him and he's hanging onto them, at least for the moment.

Among those players who were on the Lincoln roster at the beginning of spring training and who are still on Shep's club are catcher Harry Dunlop, second baseman Willie Melendez and pitchers Don Urquhart and Art Murray.

All seem assured of making the Lincoln club and journeying north next week.

Dunlop, of course, is the same lad who backstopped for Lincoln in 1955. He's slated for the No. 2 job behind Joe Canuso. Last year at Williamsport the 6-2, 195-pounder hit .250.

Melendez made quite a hit with Shepard with his maneuverings around second, and Larry classes him as "a better glove man than Kenny Toothman." He's not expected to hit in Tootie's league, but his double-play motion is far superior.

Willie hails from Rio Piedras, P. P., and last year he hit .277 for Kinston. He's a little fellow, 5-9 and 150.

Urquhart won't be a stranger to Sherman Field. He worked for Sioux City last summer, coming from New Orleans — then affiliated with Pittsburgh. Now he's back in the organization and he's looked real good this spring.

Most of the players here are sold on him and feel his 7-10 record in 1956 is no indication of his real ability. Don didn't see much action at New Orleans and then finished up with the pathetic Soos. He's 6-2, weighs 185 and hometowns at Ft. Walton Beach, Fla.

At the moment the biggest day in the young life of Mr. Murray is today. He's marrying his hometown sweetheart here in Jacksonville Beach at the local Catholic church Thursday afternoon.

Art will bring his bride to Lincoln next week.

A big boy, 6-3 and 203, Murray is from Runnemede, N. J. Art figured in only one decision last summer, a loss at New Orleans.

Lincoln's roster to date shapes up like this:

Catchers — Joe Canuso and Harry Dunlop.

Infielders — Al Grigge, Roberto Sanchez, Willie Melendez.

Outfielders — Stan Malec, Mike Solomko.

Pitchers — Jack Lamabe, Jim Duffalo, Don Urquhart, Art Murray.

More names will be added to the list in the next few days as Hollywood and Columbus continue to trim their clubs.

Islanders Win Kearney Meet

By RON GIBSON

KEARNEY—Grand Island won the Kearney Invitational Class A division Wednesday, nosing out defending champion Kearney after trailing by one point before the final event.

Grand Island won the 880-yard relay and Kearney finished second by 10 yards. This gave the Islanders the meet 119½ to 118½.

Ainsworth also came from behind to win by taking the last relay while runnerup Cozad was shutout in the B division.

Three records were broken and Ron Callan of McCook had a hand in two of them.

Callan ran the half mile in 2:01.7, breaking his own record of 2:03.3 set last year. Callan was all alone at the finish.

Callan came back later to anchor McCook's record-breaking mile relay team with a 51-second 440. McCook's time of 3:36.3 broke the 1956 record of 3:37.5 by McCook and matches the best time in the state this spring.

The other record came in the Class B 880-yard relay. Ainsworth ran the distance in 1:35.7.

Grand Island victories, in addition to the 880 relay came in the 2-mile relay; the mile, won by Loren Westover; and the 220 where Wayne Campbell and Roger Myers finished one-two.

Grand Island lost points when Gordon Bainbridge was disqualified for pushing in the mile run. Grand Island followers claimed that another G. I. runner, Robert Stuevens did the shoving.

Bainbridge finished second and Stuevens was not placed.

Ainsworth won the B title even though two of its defending individual champions were upset. Ken Fling lost his 440 title to John Vieregg of Holdrege; Dean Soles finished sixth in the 220 after winning in 1956.

Jerry Johnson of North Platte took the lead in the pentathlon competition with a score of 4,168½. Class C and D competitors will go Thursday.

Southeast Is Mid-East Golf Champion

Lincoln Southeast captured the Mid-East Conference golf championship in the loop meet at Pioneers Wednesday.

The top three Knight linksmen, Steve Miller, Bill Roper and Jon Van Bloom combined for a low 240 total for the crown. Hastings was second with 247 and Northeast, 268, Fairbury, 276 and Beatrice, 293, trailed in that order.

Roper was the meet medalist with a five-over-par 77. Miller had an 80 and Van Bloom recorded an 83.

Alan Peterson led Northeast with an 88 while Larry Rakow recorded an 89 and Gary Wuster turned in a 91.

Results:

Southeast—Steve Miller, 41-39—80; Bill Roper, 40-37—77; Jon Van Bloom, 41-42—83.

Hastings—Jack Glass, 42-39—81; Robert Hulsker, 44-42—86; Dick Kistler, 45-42—87.

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla.—It's not surprising that most of the after-practice conversation down here usually concerns Dick Stuart.

After all, he's the Pirates' top minor league sensation.

You hear all kinds of stories about the big slugger's antics at Fort Myers before he was shipped to Hollywood. Most of them are humorous.

A good example of Stuart's super-ego is the fact that he hired a press agent to represent him during spring training—because he didn't think he'd have time to take care of all the reporters who would be clamoring for interviews with him.

But even though Dick is the butt of a good many baseball stories, there isn't a soul in these parts who'll take a crack about his ability to hit home runs.

"He's got the greatest power around," says Branch Rickey Jr., Buc farm director. "If he'd only bear down and become a better team player. . . but he's going to be in the majors. . . he'll have to be. . .a guy with that power can't be kept in the minors very long."

Of course, players and officials here were eyeing the big boy's opening games at Hollywood. And his three home runs in three games, while probably causing a minor sensation on the West Coast, didn't create much of a ripple in Baby Bucville.

"He'll hit as many home runs as he wants to," one person said.

"He won't break the Coast League record, but he'll hit 40," another said.

"He's made the Hollywood Club in a hurry," a third party added.

With Stuart's tremendous power well-recognized by the Pirates, the only block in a trip to the majors—and very likely a great home run record—is his work in the outfield and his attitude.

But there's one gentleman in camp here who isn't pulling his thinning hair over Stuart's zany antics.

As far as he's concerned Dick is a great slugging prospect with a major league future, even though Stu has gained quite a reputation as a character.

This particular gentleman is William Burwell, the kindly veteran of the baseball wars who managed the Lincoln Chiefs in 1955.

"So Stuart is a character," Bill said between bites on a cheeseburger. "Hell, the way he hits a baseball you can't get too mad at him.

"And I'll tell you one thing, he's not half the screwball Ted Williams was when he broke in with the Boston Red Sox," Burwell added after taking a sip of root beer.

"I was a coach with the Red Sox then, and I'll tell you for sure Stuart is an angel compared to Williams when he came up to us. Some of the stunts Ted pulled were really crazy and Stuart will have to go some to beat Williams in the 'character' department."

With that sage observation, plus a gentle private opinion that Stuart would be in the majors before too many more moons, Burwell applied a napkin to his lips, climbed into his station wagon and dashed off to the clubhouse to begin another afternoon of schooling youngsters.

Cleveland Drops Pan-Am Games

DETROIT (AP)—A shortage of money Wednesday forced the City of Cleveland to withdraw as host city for the 1959 Pan-American Games, and officials announced immediately that the Games would be switched to Guatemala City.

In a surprising comment accompanying the announcement of the site switch, the president of the U.S. Pan-American Sports Organization admitted the complete structure of the Games "may be falling through."

Douglas F. Roby of Detroit said, "There isn't the enthusiasm there should be and frankly, I don't know where or how we're going to generate any."

A telegram from Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze to Roby announced Cleveland's decision to withdraw. It said in part:

"Cleveland and its citizens still are ready and willing to represent the United States as host to our good friends from the nations of the Western Hemisphere if Congress revises its present position, but lack of support leaves us no alternative to our present action."

The City of Cleveland needed a congressional appropriation of almost five million dollars to stage the Games, which drew 22 nations to Mexico City in 1955. Congress has refused such an appropriation.

Cleveland's withdrawal came as no great surprise. Roby had expressed doubt nearly three months ago that the Ohio city would raise the money—or the enthusiasm—needed to stage the program.

Wesleyan Sparkles In Relays

FREMONT (AP) — Pat Fischer of Omaha Westside, Jim Peterson of Fremont, Rupert Hilgenkamp of Midland and the Nebraska Wesleyan relay team featured the first annual Midland College Relays Wednesday night.

Nebraska Baseballers Clobber Air Force Academy, 23-3

Lincoln Star Special

COLORADO SPRINGS — A combination of 20 base hits, 10 Air Force Academy errors and six walks provided the University of Nebraska baseball team a 23-3 victory here Wednesday in an abbreviated eight-inning game.

Three big innings in the scoring column did the work for the Huskers. They tallied four runs in the fifth, six in the seventh and added seven more in the eighth.

The Air Force Academy jumped off to 3-1 lead in the bottom of the first with three hits and a base on balls off Husker starter Dwight Siebler but Nebraska rallied to tie the count at 3-all in the second.

The Huskers went ahead for good at 5-3 in the top of third and upped the count to 9-3 with four runs in the fifth. Then the fun began.

Sophomore first baseman Al Newbill slammed a home run in the sixth and six more runs crossed the plate in a wild seventh that was featured by a bases-loaded triple by Gil Dunne.

The Huskers added seven more in the eighth on five hits, two walks, and two errors. The big blow was a base-cleaning double by sub catcher Milan Shaw.

The game was called after eight innings by agreement.

Jerry McKay and Roger Bottorff, who pitched the last three innings, led the Husker attack with three hits each while Dunne batted in five runs.

Husker coach Tony Sharpe has named righthanders Dean Flock and Bob Kremke to handle today's pitching chores as Nebraska invades Regis College in Denver, Colo.

Bellevue Repeats As Champ In Own Meet

HOW THEY FINISHED

Bellevue	78⅛	Papillion	19½
Seward	59½	Ralston	11
Farragut, Ia.	38	Sidney, Ia.	8⅝
Plattsmouth	26½	Mo. Valley, Ia.	7
Oakland	25	Om. Holy Name	4½

BELLEVUE — Despite the absence of six performers kept out of action by a flu epidemic, Bellevue High repeated as champion in its own Night Relays Wednesday, beating runnerup Seward by almost 20 points.

Four relay records were broken, two of them by Bellevue in times which rank at the head of the Nebraska parade.

Bellevue's 880-yard relay foursome of LeMoyne Dressen, Lanny Richards, Ron Holscher and Dick Neale spun off a 1:33.6 clocking and the mile team of Ken Rhodus, Ken Morris, Roger Dennis and Dick Neale turned in a 3:34.8 to break the year-old record by five seconds.

Other winners:

120 HH—Ron Walter, Farragut, :16.6; 100 LH—Ron Holscher, Bellevue, :11.9; Mile run—Don Peterson, Papillion, 4:52.4; Discus—Ed Gates, Papillion, 126-7; Shot put—Ron Walter, Farragut, 47-1½; High jump—Ivy Conner, Bob Krajicek and Jack Head, all Bellevue, 5-6; Broad jump—Paul Martin, Oakland, 21-¾; Pole vault—Ken Morris, Bellevue, 11-0.

880 relay—Bellevue (LeMoyne Dressen, Larry Richards, Ron Holscher, Dick Neale), 1:33.6 (betters record of 1:36.2 set by Omaha Westside in 1955); Mile medley relay—Seward (Tom Evans, Wayne Hagemoser, Ray Pollack, Roger Jacobs), 3:43 (betters record of 3:50.8 set by Bellevue in 1956); Freshman 880 relay—Bellevue (Bob Lyons, Roy Jones, Mike Dagan, Dave Jackson), 1:47.1; Two-mile relay—Seward (Jim Schultz, Bob Pollack, Mayleu Dickey, Roger Jacobs), 8:51.9; 440 relay—Seward (Dennis Stark, Wayne Hagemoser, Ray Pollack, Tom Evans), :46.2 (betters record of :46.5 set in 1954 by Bellevue); Mile relay—Bellevue (Ken Rhodus, Ken Morris, Roger Dennis, Dick Neale), 3:34.8 (betters record of 3:39.8 set by Bellevue in 1956).

Ed Smith Wins Hillcrest Honors

Aliens Given Hunting Rights In Nebraska

The Legislature acted to give aliens hunting rights in Nebraska.

State law prohibits aliens from possessing firearms.

The Legislators moved up from general file LB 329, a bill eliminating the prohibition. The idea is to permit aliens to hunt, sponsors of the bill said.

Kearney, Norfolk Meets Top Slate

The second half of the two-day Kearney Invitational, The Norfolk Invitational and several conference meets feature Thursday's Nebraska high school track program.

Classes C and D will run today at Kearney. Cambridge is the C champ and Sumner the Class D champ.

The Southeast Nebraska Conference meet at Auburn today figures to be a Falls City-Nebraska City race with Falls City looking strong enough to repeat as champion.

At Norfolk, Norfolk is prepared to defend its championship in the invitational meet.

Other meets include:

Mudecas at Lincoln (Nebraska Wesleyan), Exeter Night Relays, Pioneer Conference at Hastings, Corntassel Conference at Wayne, Richardson County Big Eight at Auburn.

Trans-Nebraska Southern Division at Hebron, Oregon Trail at Bayard, Cloverleaf Conference at Crete (Doane), Loup Valley Conference at Ord, Hi-Line Conference at Farnam.

FRIEND REVEALS ARM-LOCK SCARE

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Bob Friend, Pittburgh's ace righthander and a 9-2 winner over the New York Giants in Tuesday's opener, Wednesday let his teammates in on a secret—his arm "locked" on him last Saturday morning.

Friend

Friend said it "scared" him.

He was in New York for the "Salute to Baseball" television program and he had just gotten out of bed.

"I went to put on my shirt," he said, "and my arm locked. Was I worried! I thought of chips right away.

"But that night I talked to Robin Roberts Philadelphia Phillies star and he said it happens to him every spring.

He told me to take a 20 minute warmup before I pitched the next time and that's what I did in Charleston, W. Va., Sunday and it worked out.

Omaha's Womochil Gains TKO Victory

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Wayne Womochil of Omaha took the measure of Benny Mason, South St. Paul, Minn., by a technical knockout on a card featuring an exhibition by Floyd Patterson, heavyweight boxing champion.

Patterson exhibited his wares against the headgear-wearing Julio Mederos, Cuban heavyweight champion, for four sparring rounds. No weights were announced and the exchange of blows was on the unexciting side.

Despite wide publicity, the exhibition drew only 565 into the Minneapolis Auditorium.

Mele To Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis Indians of the American Assn. signed Sam Mele, a major league outfielder for the past seven years, Wednesday as a free agent.

Mephistopheles Cops Big Inaugural Purse

GRAND ISLAND—Mephistopheles, a horse bearing the same handle as the devil who in mythology is supposed to have the most power next the Satan himself, lived up to its name by upsetting the applecart and copping the $1,500 Inaugural Handicap purse in the feature race in the opening day of 1957 racing at Fonner Park here Wednesday.

Mephistopheles returned $16.20, $5.20 and $4.00 in outrunning favored The Snapper, who finished among the also-rans, and six other horses for the purse.

The daily double paid $160.20.

Royals Swap 4 Players For Lovellette

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Cincinnati Royals Wednesday swapped four players and their first choice in the annual college draft of the National Basketball Assn. to the Minneapolis Lakers for Clyde Lovellette and Jim Paxson.

Minneapolis chose Hot Rod Hundley of West Virginia as its draft choice. The Lakers also acquired from the Royals Art Spelstra, Bob Burrow, Don Meineke and Ed Fleming.

The New York Knickerbockers, who had the second draft choice, selected Charles Tyra, 6-8 Louisville center.

Minneapolis, exercising its regular third choice in the draft, chose Jim Krebs of Southern Methodist.

The St. Louis Hawks, next in line, picked up Win Wilfong of Memphis State, named the most valuable player in the National Invitational Tournament.

The New York Knickerbockers, who also had fifth choice, selected Brendan McCann of St. Bonaventure.

Len Rosenbluth of North Carolina, perhaps the most publicized of the crop of college players, went to the Philadelphia Warriors, who had the sixth pick.

Syracuse, No. 7, chose George BonSalle, Illinois center.

There was some talk that BonSalle might not be interested in playing pro ball.

The champion Boston Celtics, with the last choice in the first round of selections, took Sam Jones, North Carolina College Negro. Jones was drafted by Minneapolis last year but returned to college and thus became eligible for the draft once more.

STATE LOOP PARKS BEING READIED FOR OPENERS

LEXINGTON (AP) — The Nebraska State League opener is still a couple of months away but already several clubs are well underway on park improvements.

Bids have been let for a dressing room at Lexington and work has started on improvement of the stands at Kearney, league secretary Ernie Quitmeyer said Wednesday.

At McCook lights are being moved from the field used last year to a new one. It is planned to transfer even the sod from the old site to the new.

The league will offer grass infields at all points this year and reports Wednesday generally were that the grass is coming along in good shape.

The season ticket sales campaign began Tuesday at seven points and Wednesday at Hastings. First day sales were 1,068 with Kearney topping the other seven cities with a total of 249 sold.

Two of the teams in the unique Class D Rookie League still lack managers. They are North Platte and Holdrege.

Pleasanton—Robert Karsten, full blue.

Syracuse University's basketball team scored 46 points in the last 12 minutes in a 1957 game against Colgate.

Whoopers Spotted

Three of one of the world's rarest bird species have been observed on the Niobrara River, Lloyd Vance of the Nebraska Game Commission disclosed Wednesday.

Vance said that three whooping cranes were observed on the Niobrara near Meadville in Keya Paha County Tuesday by Commission Waterfowl Biologist Harvey Miller.

MICKEY MANTLE

Mantle To Enter Hotel Business

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Mickey Mantle, star outfielder for the New York Yankees, has gone into the hotel business.

Owners of the 21-room Shadow Rock Park Hotel at Old Forsyth, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Jennings, said Wednesday they had sold the place to Shadow Rock Park Hotel, Inc., a $250,000 corporation, of which Mantle is president. Vice president is Tom Greenwade, a Yankee scout who signed up Mantle for the club.

Suffers Fracture

MONTREAL (AP)—Bob Armstrong, Boston Bruin defenseman, suffered a minor fracture in his right foot in Tuesday night's Stanley Cup final against Montreal, club doctor Edward Brown said Wednesday.

Ross Says Sugar Will KO Fullmer

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—Barney Ross, former world lightweight and welter champ, predicted Wednesday Sugar Ray Robinson could knock out Gene Fullmer within three rounds but added it would be anybody's fight if Robinson let the middleweight champion escape in the early stages of their May 1 title bout at Chicago.

Ross watched the former welter and middleweight king box four rounds, two each against Lee Williams of Augusta, Ga., and Otis Woodard of Memphis. He now has boxed 54 rounds for the return match.

Robinson will box at his camp Thursday and Friday and will move to New York for a final session before leaving Saturday night for Chicago. He will finish his training routine at Chicago.

Delay Asked On Upland Game Stamp Bill

The Upland Game Stamp revision bill Wednesday faced a motion to kill, made by Sen. Lautenschlager, Grand Island, during Tuesday's session.

The decision will come April 23.

Sen. Moulton, Omaha, asked the delay so he could get a statement from the Game Commission on how it would spend the stamp money if the revision bill survives Lautenschlager's kill motion and then is passed.

When the stamp bill was enacted in 1955 it was provided that money could only be used for the "purpose of propagating and restoration of pheasants and quail."

But LB 583, the new bill, would revise the language so that the money would be used for matching Federal funds for pheasant and quail management purposes.

Game Commission Secretary Mel Steen has said that some persons feel that under present law the stamp funds can be spent only for breeding or buying birds, and has said that in such instances the Federal government will not provide matching funds because no development of cover and food is called for.

Steen has said that passage of LB 583 would remove all doubt and enable the state to get matching funds.

On the other hand, some sportsmen have opposed LB 583, saying they feared it would permit diversion of funds to purposes other than bettering pheasant and quail hunting.

Nebraska State Loop May Set New Pattern

COLUMBUS (AP)—George Trautman, president of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball minor Leagues, has called a meeting May 2 in Johnson City, Tenn., to discuss formation of another Class D Rookie League. Trautman said the proposed league would include about six teams in Tennessee and Virginia and patterned after the Nebraska State League formed last summer.

TWO RELAY TEAMS, INDIVIDUALS TO RUN FOR NU AT KANSAS RELAYS

Two relay teams and four competitors in the individual events will comprise the University of Nebraska entry in the Kansas Relays at Lawrence, Friday and Saturday.

Joe Mullins, sensational freshman and Mike Fleming, better at the middle distances, will both compete unattached in the Glenn Cunningham Mile.

Huskers entered are Dean Brittenham, javelin; Dale Knotek, high jump; Ken Pollard, pole vault; Bill Hawkins, broad jump.

The 880-yard relay team will be comprised of Dick Jahr, Don Phillipps, Don House and Keith Gardner.

The sprint medley team will have Gardner running the 440, Jahr and House, the 220 legs and Knolly Barnes anchoring at 880 yards.

The team leaves Friday.

Mullins and Fleming will be running against Oklahoma's South African Gail Hodgson who stepped an exhiibtion mile in 41-degree temperature last week at Norman in 4:12.2.

A new age of automobiles begins with this car

Touch a button—in less than a minute the steel top disappears magically into the trunk—and you're in a supremely elegant convertible. It's two cars in one!

Here Today! The FORD SKYLINER—world's only Hide-Away hardtop

Once in a long, long while a car comes along that people remember and talk about for years after its introduction.

The first model "A" Ford was such a car . . .
The first Ford V-8 was such a car . . .
The first Ford Thunderbird was such a car.

Today Ford Division is proud to announce still another car that many say is destined to become the most famous Ford of all: The Skyliner—world's only hide-away hardtop.

If you plan to buy a new Ford, or already own one, the fact that Ford created this car is important to you. For all the exhaustive research, planning and testing that went into the Skyliner is evidence of the engineering skill you get in every Ford model.

The Ford SKYLINER, the only all-steel hide-away hardtop, is a car for history.

This is an old dream of Detroit, a dream of two generations of motorists.

And today Ford has made that dream come true—in steel.

But the story behind this dream is a story of men who refused to accept "no" for an answer. In the Ford tradition they kept striving toward the goal long after others had given up the chase.

To understand this Ford spirit you must go back to 1908. That was the year when many Detroiters smiled smugly as Henry Ford announced, "We will build a motor car for the great multitude . . . so low in price that no man making a good salary will be unable to own one."

And they did.

Today, nearly a half century later, Ford continues to cause the "experts" to change their tune. When you see this all-steel hardtop that retracts into a convertible, you'll be seeing a car that many said would never be mass-produced.

But Ford did it.

Like all things creative, this car had its beginning inside a man's mind. In 1948 a Ford stylist saw his first "hardtop convertible."

The car had no center posts. It looked something like a convertible. But it could no more put its steel top down than it could fly.

Disappointed, the stylist was intrigued with the idea. "Why not," he asked, "an all-steel car that really would convert?"

Trying to work out this idea, the stylist and his associates found no shortage of problems: Where to hide the top? How to make it fit? Where to store luggage? How to make it all work smoothly?

The styling group put in long hours. They experimented. They improvised. They worked unceasingly. Finally they completed a power-operated three-eighths scale model that actually worked.

It was December 1956—after eight years of research, planning, experimenting and testing—when Ford unveiled this masterpiece . . . unveiled it amid all the pomp and splendor of the New York Automobile Show. To say that it made a hit would be an understatement. Crowds actually applauded spontaneously as the Skyliner completed its quick-change routine. Many of them had long dreamed of such a car . . . but few really expected to see it.

And now this history-making car, this prototype of a whole future generation of cars, is ready for your own personal inspection in the showrooms of many Ford Dealers.

Plan to see it soon. And ask your Dealer to show you the exciting advances in all models of the new Ford line for '57.

In creating the Skyliner, Ford continues its tradition of being first with the important innovations. Come in and see this newest example of Ford's leadership. Let us give you the exciting details on this revolutionary car—and the other great '57 Ford models.

SWEDISH EXPERT: U.S. BUDGET CUT 'URGENT'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (INS) —A top economic expert called on the United States Wednesday to cut government spending and put its finances in order as an "urgent" measure needed to curb "increasingly acute" dangers of inflation.

Per Jacobsson, managing director of the International Monetary Fund, digressed from his annual report on the Fund's operations to warn that deficit spending, particularly in the U.S., is the "greatest obstacle to monetary order."

John C. Baker, U.S. representative on the U.N. Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), declared in a speech following Jacobsson's report:

". . .We are fully aware of the powerful pressures that are constantly being exerted on prices, costs and financial resources.

Anti-Inflationary

"We are, therefore, maintaining policies which we deem essential to counter inflationary forces."

Baker ruled out the use of direct controls "in the effort to achieve and maintain financial stability." He said the U.S. was meeting the vital problem partly "by reliance on monetary and fiscal controls."

The U.S. delegate praised Jacobsson, who has led a tremendous expansion of the Monetary Fund's operations since taking office last Dec. 3, as a "man who has long enjoyed a world wide reputation as a learned writer and wise counselor in the field of international economic and financial co-operation."

Jacobsson told ECOSOC there has been an evident breakdown at the halfway point in the theory of compensatory budgets—increased government spending during depression and curtailment during periods when private business investment rises.

"It now seems," he said, "as if the authorities were quite ready to accept the first part of this theory, but that they show great hesitation and unwillingness to carry out the necessary retrenchment in a period of boom."

The Swedish economic expert's speech was largely a technical analysis of the nearly one billion dollars "loaned" by the Fund since he became managing director. Total drawings since the Fund was established amounts to more than two billion dollars.

The fund "sells" dollars on short-term arrangements to nations with pressing needs which "pay" in their own currencies. The "borrowing" country must "repurchase" this currency within three to five years.

Jacobsson praised the governments of Belgium, the Netherlands, Britain and Austria for having recently "taken steps to cut down effectively the volume of their government expenditure.

He expressed hope that the examples set by these countries will start "a new fashion, involving a curtailment of government expenditure. . .instead of the practice of ever-mounting budgets followed in most countries. . .

"For such a fashion to be firmly established it is probably necessary that some extra-European countries—and particularly the United States—should partake in the movement."

Jacobsson earlier told a news conference that more U.S. trade—instead of aid—would be better for America and the wrold.

OK For Air Base 'Lift Station' At 9th And O Given

Approval has been given by the City Council to set up a "lift station" at 9th and O for Air Force Base personnel.

Welfare and Safety Director Emmett Junge explained to the Council that the present practice of airmen hitchhiking to the Base along the Harris Overpass was unsatisfactory. The lift station had been requested by Base officers, he said.

The station at the northeast corned of 9th and O would also be a stop for the LAFB bus. About three parking stalls will be required for the station.

STATE FHA HAS 3 NEW ADVISERS

New members of the state advisory committee for the Farmers Home Administration are John E. Heist, Pickrell farmer; Dean Krotter, farmer and businessman from Palisade, and Earl K. Van Steenberg, Gothenburg banker.

W. O. Collett, state FHA director, announced their appointments. They replace Willard Waldo of DeWitt, John Van Auken of McCook and Donald B. Reynolds Sr. of North Platte.

Other members of the committee are Harold A. Brownell, a farmer from Mitchell, and Fred A. Curry, Ponca farmer.

Atkinson Men Asks Hwy. 11 Be Hardtop

A five-man delegation from Atkinson, Neb. met with Gov. Anderson and State Engineer L. N. Ress Wednesday to request that a 6.2 mile portion of Highway 11 south of Atkinson be converted to hardtop.

Spokesman for the group, Frank Brady, said about half of the 12-mile strip is now in hardtop, but the remainder is gravel and "almost impassable during inclement weather."

The governor told the delegation that its request was not included in work projects scheduled for the next biennium, but was slated in the four-year work plan.

Both Gov. Anderson and Ress assured the group that the state "is making steady progress" on its roads and that any further road construction would depend upon additional revenue the state receives.

The governor made specific reference to the one-cent gas tax measure currently before the Legislature.

Brady commended the progress made since Ress became state engineer, and Ress replied, "We've been making progress in the past year because of additional revenue and sound engineering."

In addition to Brady, the delegates were C. E. Spence, Bob Clifford, Albert Lemmer and Harvey Groff.

—Teachers' Retirement—

ANDERSON STANDS BY LEVY CUT

Gov. Victor Anderson Wednesday stood by this proposal to cut the teachers' retirement tax levy from one-half to one-third mill. The Legislature voted 15-23 against the cut the day before.

Defending the proposed decrease, the governor made it plain that he is "for the teachers' pension and for keeping it sound." He said it "would continue to be sound under my program."

The Legislature originally set the one-half mill levy "to build up the reserve," he said. Now that the reserve is "substantial," the governor said, the levy can be cut back safely.

'Ultra-Conservative'

Commenting on actuaries' testimony before the Revenue Committee that a cut would threaten the long-range soundness of the fund, Anderson said the actuaries' figures are traditionally "ultra-conservative."

The governor produced figures showing that actuary estimates on the cost of the retirement system for the years since 1948 were substantially greater than the cost for those years actually turned out to be.

Gov. Anderson said his proposed one-third mill levy still would bring in around a million dollars a year.

He said the expense of the fund has been about a half million dollars a year and may rise to around $600,000.

No Revision

For the present, Anderson said, he is not going to take any measure to revise his budget program.

"I'm on record against any increase in taxes and I'm going to stay that way," he said.

He added that when the two million dollar "cushion" in his present budget is used up by increased spending measures, some action will have to be taken somewhere to maintain the hold-the-line program.

Wilbert

"I brought him all the way home before I discovered it wasn't Wilbert!"

Lincoln Company's NU Cafeteria Job Bid Apparent Low

The Lincoln Engineering Construction company was the apparent low bidder on a University of Nebraska project to remodel cafeteria facilities at the Foods and Nutrition building at the College of Agriculture. Its bid is $23,440.

The project, financed with bond revenue, is included as part of the University's dormitory building program. The cafeteria is to be altered to facilitate the feeding of 300 students who will live in new dormitories at the College beginning this fall.

Other bidders: O. C. Hursch $24,580; W. J. Broer Construction $24,860; Assenmacher Construction $26,483; Peterson Construction $27,956; George Cook Construction $28,255; H. J. Dutton $28,444; Olson Construction $30,581; and Kingery Construction $32,110.

The bids will be submitted to the Board of Regents for action Tuesday afternoon.

Ord Man Heads List Of Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbors

OMAHA (AP) — Henry G. Lange of Ord was named Wednesday as an outstanding example of the kind of Nebraskan who wins Ak-Sar-Ben good neighbor awards.

Lange

Lange's name headed the list of 10 Nebraskans announced by E. F. Pettis, president of Ak-Sar-Ben for the awards given annually for unselfish and neighborly deeds.

Lange not only helped build St. John's Lutheran Church but brought the Twin Loups reclamation project to the organizational state; helped one rural township raise a large amount of money for the polio drive and helped get the Ord Community Hospital on its feet financially.

Other neighborly deeds are the trips he makes to the county board to plead the case of a less articulate neighbor, car and financial help for a former hired man stricken with polio; and the house he bought in Ord to provide shelter for an indigent family of six whose breadwinner is in a wheelchair.

Also receiving the good neighbor pins for their unselfish services to fellow Nebraskans are:

Mrs. M. G. Williams of Scotia for leading a group of 14 sub-teen and teen-age girls which meets at her home every Thursday afternoon and teaching them to sew.

John Pallas of Thurston, a flower lover, who not only gives freely from his outstanding gardens but who plants, prunes trees and sprays gardens for neighbors.

Charles B. Fricke of Columbus, a retired druggist who spends most of his time doing favors for other people who are not physically able to enjoy life because of some affliction or old age.

Tom Combs of Valentine, for taking part in all civic affairs. Last year he put in two automatic phone devices, one uptown where people could call a number to learn what civic events were on that evening. The other was installed at the airport so that local citizens and ranchers could phone and get the latest weather information and forecast.

Samuel I. Berek of Fremont, for paying for complete Scout outfits for underprivileged boys; for giving of his time and money to aid 4-H work; and for writing and producing more than 100 pageants for 4-H coronations, Scouts, centennials and patriotic organizations.

Bill Engle of South Sioux City, who took over the coaching of that city's golden gloves boxing team, improvising his own "gym" in the rear of his barber shop, and leading the team at Nebraska's first trophies in the Sioux City tournament for senior glovers the past two years.

Frank Edgerton of Aurora, for equipping a recreation room which is giving many happy hours to other elderly folks in his home town.

Leonard B. Harrison of Gering, for being one of the state's most successful county March of Dimes directors. A victim of polio before the age of 1, Harrison also has acted as chairman of the Elks Crippled Children Clinic for many years.

George McVicker of North Bend, for assembling an outstanding historical collection and contributing it and his writings to the North Bend centennial celebration program.

Plane Rides Given Contest Winners

Fairbury's Cub Scout Kite Flying Competition Attracted 59 Entries

Lincoln Star Special

FAIRBURY, Neb.—There were 59 entries in the Cub Scout kite flying contest at the municipal airport here. This number also included entries of kites made by children who are not Cub Scout members. With a variable south wind, the contestants needed all of their skill to keep the kites aloft.

Winners in the largest built division were Bill Hull, first; Richard Brackle, second, and Charles Schlichtman, third. Honors went to the following in the best built kite division: Sidney Shelburne, first; Jimmie Henderson, second and Bruce Short, third. Sidney Shelburne, Eugene Hohensee and Randy Jones won in the novelty division. Neil Waring had the highest flying kite with Eugene Hohensee and Randy Jones following.

Winners in the non-Scout entries for the smallest kite went to Susan Shelburne, Mark Kuck and Linda Hodges. Highest flying honors went to Charles Bauer and Steve Thornton while Randy Henderson had the best built kite. Kenneth Portwood won in the novelty class.

Top winners in all divisions were given a free airplane ride at the airport. The annual event was sponsored by the Optimist Club and leaders of the Cub Scouts.

Parents Of Blind Children Elect Lincolnite Head

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb. — Mrs. Glen Hanley of Lincoln was elected president Wednesday of the Nebraska Association of Parents of Blind Children during the group's annual three-day meeting here.

Dr. William Juergensen of Omaha was named vice president, and Frederick Bender of Sutton, secretary-treasurer. Robert Ramig of North Platte is the retiring president, having served for the past three years. The meeting will continue through Friday.

Longtime Phillips Resident Is Dead

PHILLIPS, Neb. — Funeral services for William H. Sundermeier Sr., 84, a resident of this community for nearly 75 years, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the Messiah Lutheran Church.

Born in Germany, he came to the U.S. with his parents in 1883, settling near Phillips.

Surviving are two sons, Theodore of Grand Island and Arthur of Phillips; six daughters, Mrs. Rosa Kuehner of Grand Island, Mrs. Henry Obermeier and Mrs. Ed Obermeier, both of Giltner, Mrs. John Opp of Wood River, Mrs. William Ward of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Charles Nauhalgen of Whittier, Calif.; 30 grandchildren and 44 great grandchildren.

Wholesale Gas Hike Canceled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Power Commission has suspended a $650,000, or 19.9 per cent, annual wholesale natural gas rate increase by Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co., Inc., Phillipsburg, Kan., which the company proposed making effective May 1 to eight wholesale customers in Nebraska. The commission suspended the hike until Oct. 1, after which it may be put into effect subject to refund.

Pipeline Company Asks Daily Output Increase

. . . In Addition To Expansion Program

WASHINGTON — Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America has asked the Federal Power Commission for permission to increase its daily deliverability in addition to its current major expansion program. Total cost of the projects is estimated at $210,000,000.

The company, which delivers natural gas to utilities in six states, is seeking approval to increase facilities in order to provide 185,000,000 cubic feet per day.

cubic feet of additional gas will come from the company's new pipeline extension from Jack and Wise Counties, Tex., to its mainline at Fritch, Tex. FPC approval of this project was given last December.

Lone Star Supplier

Other sources in the Texas Panhandle and in Oklahoma will provide the balance. The largest of these suppliers is Lone Star Gas Company, scheduled to make delivery of up to 100,000,000 cubic feet per day to NGPL at a point on the extension line in Oklahoma.

There will be 29,750 increased compressor engine horsepower in stations along the mainline from Fritch to Joliet.

The delivery date for this additional gas supply is the 1959-60 winter season. The 1958-59 season is the target set for the 485,000,000 cubic feet expansion.

The six states to which Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America delivers natural gas to utilities are Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin and Illinois.

Nebraska News

Hearings in the firm's earlier request for 485,000,000 increase are now nearing completion.

The combined effect of these separate expansion plans will be to increase by 670,000,000 cubic feet the present deliverability capacity of 510,000,000 cubic feet.

Beatrice Terminus

Construction work for the new expansion plan will include installation of 337 miles of 30-inch loop line between the company's terminus in Texas and Beatrice, Neb. Fifty-nine miles of 36 inch pipeline will also be laid between Beatrice and Joliet, Ill.

At present the long-distance line operated by NGPL is made up of dual 24 and 26-inch lines. The two expansion plans now before the FPC will result in a parallel of all these lines with new large diameter pipeline.

Quarter Section Brings Goodly Sum Of $37,000

HEBRON, Neb.—A quarter section of Thayer County land sold at a referee's sale at the courthouse here for $37,000, one of the highest prices ever paid for a Thayer County quarter.

The farm, sold as the result of a partition action to settle the estate of the late Wm. Fintel Jr., was purchased by his son, Irwin, who initiated the partition proceedings.

County Attorney Leonard Germer, the referee, described the farm as one of the best improved in the county. It lies in a lush farming area four miles north of Byron.

While the land is not now under irrigation, a test well put down in March indicates ample water supplies.

State K Of C Convention Set For Hastings

HASTINGS, Neb. (AP) — State Officers of the Nebraska State Council of the Knights of Columbus and representatives of each of the 40 subordinate councils will gather in Hastings April 28 for the 53rd annual convention.

Emmett Blaes, past state deputy from Wichita, Kan., will be the banquet speaker April 28 and Bishop John Paschang of Grand Island, will be celebrant of a solemn pontifical high mass on April 29.

Star Council awards from the Supreme Council will be awarded by E. A. Ondracek of Greeley.

The March 1 membership of Knights in Nebraska exceeded 12,000.

Unique Sawmill Located At Pawnee City

By BILL HINEL
Beatrice Bureau

PAWNEE CITY, Neb. — An overhauled and rebuilt auto engine operating a sawmill five miles east of Pawnee City, can turn out about 4,000 board feet of lumber daily with two men operating the sawmill. Although this isn't an astronomical figure, and it's a far cry from the giant steam operated sawmills of the lumber country, it's a unique operation for Nebraska.

Bob Moser and Bill Scheiddegger, who operate the mill on the Scheiddegger farm five miles east of Pawnee City, recently began the job of converting to rough lumber, a pile of logs which it is estimated will produce about 75,000 board feet.

The logs are maple, hackberry, elm, ash and oak and were collected mostly from landclearing operations along the Nemaha River. The lumber will be shipped to St. Louis, Mo. and Des Moines, Ia., except what is used locally, and will be used for cribbing and sheathing.

Biggest headache to the Moser sawmill is railroad spikes and other pieces of metal driven into the trees years ago and grown over. "When we hit something like that, we usually lose a lot of sawteeth," says Moser.

Lumber Mill A Novelty In Nebraska

Although Nebraska is not known as a lumber state, nevertheless there are some sawmills around. This one, operated by Bob Moser of Pawnee City is on the Bill Scheiddegger farm east of Pawnee City. Logs are hackberry, walnut and others. Lumber is shipped to St. Louis and Des Moines for use as cribbing and sheathing. (Star Staff Photo)

Educators Will Discuss Pupil Behavior

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)—More than 200 educators and laymen are expected in Grand Island April 23 for a statewide joint conference on pupil behavior.

The conference is sponsored by the National Education Assn., the National Commission for the Defense of Democracy through Education, and the Nebraska State Education Assn.

Dr. Richard B. Kennan, executive secretary of the National Defense Commission for Democracy Through Education, Washington, D. C., will give the keynote address on the topic, "Is Discipline a Community Concern." After his address, the 200 participants will divide into six discussion sessions to talk about various aspects of school discipline. Discussion will be based on the National Education Assn's research bulletin, "Teacher Opinion on Pupil Behacior."

R. C. Patterson of Lincoln, department adjutant of the American Legion, will speak at a luncheon session, on "Meet the Challenge."

Dr. James Reiva of Denver, Colo., chairman of the National Education Assn. Defense Commission, will preside at the conference. He is principal of Morey Junior High School in Denver.

Dr. Earle W. Wiltse, Grand Island superintendent of schools and a member of the National Education Assn. Defense Commission, said of the conference: "This is probably the most important educational conference to be held in Nebraska this year. The misbehavior of children and youth appears to be one of the most critical social problems of the day. Accounts of juvenile gangsterism, stealing and armed assault are being viewed by parents and educators alike with growing concern."

Statewide organizations have been invited to send delegates to the conference.

Egg Hunt At Wisner

WISNER, Neb. — The Wisner Volunteer Fire Department will sponsor an Easter egg hunt here at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Oakland Man Loses His Life

LYONS, Neb. (AP) — The state Safety Patrol Wednesday listed Jesse Weaver, 79, of Oakland as the latest traffic fatality in Nebraska for the year.

The patrol said that Weaver died of pneumonia as the result of an auto accident April 3.

Weaver was the driver of a car that was in collision with one driven by Lorne L. Ross, 44, of Akron, Iowa, according to the patrol.

The death brings the total number of fatalities for the year to 63, the patrol said, compared with 87 for the same period a year ago.

Farm Churn Disappearing From Scene

WASHINGTON (AP)—The farm churn is rapidly disappearing from the agricultural scene.

An Agriculture Department report on farm production, disposition and income from milk in 1956 showed that farm-churned butter decreased to the lowest level in department records. Totaling 149 million pounds, it represented 9 per cent of the nation's total butter production.

While Midwestern dairy states produce the bulk of the creamery butter, Southern states produce most of the farm-churned butter.

The report placed cash receipts from marketing of milk and cream in 1956 at $4,469,000,000, an increase of 6 per cent from the previous year and second only to the record high of $4,567,000,000 in 1952.

AF Crosses Off Omaha For Flying Reserve Squadron

WASHINGTON (AP) — Omaha has been eliminated by the Air Force from consideration for a flying reserve unit.

Rep. Cunningham was told by Maj. Gen. Robert E. L. Eaton, commander of the 10th Air Force at Selfridge AFB, Mich., that "because we were unable to locate a suitable airport, we dropped this area from consideration and programmed the unit for another area."

Attempts to locate a reserve flying squadron at the Omaha Municipal Airport were turned down by the Omaha Airport Commission and use of Offutt AFB was rejected by the Strategic Air Command.

Transfer Of City Funds For New Library Approved

MITCHELL, Neb. (AP)—Voters approved transfer of city funds for a proposed new library. The vote was 301 for and 21 against.

Voters approved acceptance of a $20,000 gift from the Bay State Foundation and transfer from the city light fund to the library fund money for completing and equipping the library. The transferred funds were excess in the city light fund.

Stocks Post Uneven Rise

NEW YORK (AP) — Aluminums, oils, utilities and selected issues advanced Wednesday as the stock market rose irregularly in fairly active trading.

Turnover increased as the market digested two days of readjustment after last week's upsurge, the biggest of the year.

Volume totaled 2,290,000 shares compared with 1,890,000 Tuesday.

Prices were higher at the start and remained so throughout the day in spite of backing and filling which threatened to leave the picture irregular on balance.

Generally, it was a question of individual stocks responding to their own corporate news.

President Eisenhower's statement to his news conference, which was interpreted as giving his blessing to new legislation aimed at relaxing controls on natural gas producers, had no big impact on shares representing this industry. The response was uncertain and mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 30 cents to $178.10 with the industrials up 60 cents, the rails down 10 cents and the utilities up 20 cents to a new 1957 high.

Of 1,151 issues traded, exactly the same as Tuesday, advances outnumbered declines by 448 to 427. There were 85 new 1957 highs and 24 new lows.

On the American Stock Exchange prices were irregular on 800,000 shares compared with 910,000 Tuesday.

U.S. government bonds declined in quiet dealings over the counter.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK (AP) — Corporate bond prices softened Wednesday.

Minus marks were liberally represented in all major divisions although the rails seemed to show more resistance than the other groups.

Bonds of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and its subsidiaries displayed downward tendencies after the company announced plans for a massive borrowing program.

Bond trading on the New York Stock Exchange totaled $4,311,000 par value, against $3,400,000 Wednesday.

U.S. Treasury bonds leaned toward the downside in quiet over-the-counter dealings.

Foreign liens were narrowly mixed and quiet.

BUYING BOOSTS WHEAT FUTURES

CHICAGO (AP) — Buying based on export indications, which might further deplete Chicago's wheat supplies, boosted wheat futures prices as much as two cents a bushel on the Board of Trade Wednesday.

The May wheat contract was stronger than the new crop deliveries. Corn firmed somewhat in late dealings, and oats were higher. Soybeans were mixed and showed little change.

Old style wheat closed ⅜ to 2 cents higher, new wheat ¼ to ⅝ higher, corn ⅜ lower to ¼ higher, oats ¼ to 1⅛ higher, rye unchanged to 1 cent higher, soybeans ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, and lard unchanged to 7 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Traders reported that 60,000 bushels of red wheat were being moved out of Chicago for the Eastern Seaboard, apparently for export. The government agreed to dispose of $20,400,000 worth of farm products, including wheat, to Columbia for payment in dollars and pesos. The agreement includes 172,000 metric tons of wheat and 26,200 metric tons of flour.

India bought 700,000 bushels of wheat and Japan purchased 350,000 bushels. However, these purchases were made on the West Coast, where wheat usually is not hedged in the Chicago market.

There were reports that a lake steamer loaded with 133,547 bushels of wheat cleared Chicago for Duluth. A steamer loaded with 173,554 bushels of soybeans was reported headed from Chicago to Toronto.

New crop wheat showed some strength because of the May delivery action and also because of continued rainfall in the grain belt. The crop could use some dry weather and sunshine.

Nearby corn contracts were somewhat lower on selling influenced somewhat by fairly heavy receipts, which included 248 cars and 156,000 bushels by barge.

Quiz Star Van Doren Weds His Secretary

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, Virgin Islands (AP) — TV quiz star Charles Van Doren answered another question Wednesday—with a simple "I do." He won a bride, and perhaps $20,000 in tax exemptions.

The bride is Miss Geraldine Ann Bernstein, 23, a helpmate over the winter months in which Van Doren, a $4,200-a-year teacher at Columbia University, won fame and, before taxes, a fortune as the hottest personality on NBC's cash-laden quiz show, "Twenty-One."

Municipal Judge Cyril Michael married them in a simple ceremony witnessed by a half dozen relatives and friends.

Van Doren, 31, promptly filed a radiogram to his father, poet Mark Van Doren, in New York, which gave him the news in family code:

"Worried today."

That duplicated a telegram Mark Van Doren's parents received from him after he married writer-editor Dorothy Graffe Sept. 1, 1922. The poet had written "Married today," but the message was garbled in transmission.

His son, who won $129,000 on the quiz program before he failed March 11 to remember that Baudouin is the king of Belgium and flunked out to Mrs. Vivienne Nearing, is getting a tax break through his marriage.

Experts calculate that he will save nearly $20,000. His tax as a single man would have been around $95,000. As a married man he can split his income and figure the tax in a lower bracket.

The bride—"Jerry" to her friends—is credited in New York broadcasting circles with persuading him to air his broad knowledge of the world and its people on the video circuit. The tall, handsome teacher was a success from the start.

As his fame mounted, she became his secretary.

The couple came last Saturday to these American Islands, between the Leewards and Puerto Rico, for an Easter vacation.

Fred W. Decker, Ex-Engineer On CB&Q, Dies At 74

Fred W. Decker, 74, a retired CB & Q engineer, died Wednesday.

He lived at 3924 Washington.

Mr. Decker was a native of Minnesota and had lived in Lincoln 46 years.

He was a member of Second Presbyterian Church, Lancaster Lodge 54, AF & AM; Lincoln Chapter 6 RAM; Lincoln Council 4, R & SM; Mount Moriah Commandery 4, K.T.; Sesostris Temple Shrine; and Electa Chapter 8, OES.

Surviving are his wife, Georgia A.; sons, Tom of Altadena, Calif., Fred of Van Nuys, Calif., and Richard of Clarendon Hills, Ill.; daughters, Mrs. Hazel Turner and Mrs. A. E. Loder, both of Lincoln, and Mrs. Bobbe Kiessig of Hollywood, Calif.; a sister, Mrs. Elva White of Manhattan, Mont.; brothers, E. Clyde and Roy of San Francisco, Marshall of Vegas, Nev., and Carl of Seattle, Wash.

Six grandchildren and one great-grandson also survive.

Cat Club Elects Mrs. Thomann

Mrs. Henry Thomann of 3545 Mohawk, has been elected president of the Cornhusker Cat Club.

Other new officers elected were Mrs. Ed Herman of 2901 F, vice president; Mrs. Bob Ross of Rt. 1, secretary; and Harry Burback of 1128 J, treasurer.

The club has tentatively set Nov. 16 as the date for a Lincoln showing of the American Cat Fanciers Association cat show. The show is to be held in co-operation with the Kansas City Midwest All-Breeds Cat Club.

Both clubs are affiliates of the American Cat Fanciers Association.

LAFB Finance Office Sets Up Cashier's Cage

Lincoln Air Force Base officials announced the opening of a "cashier's cage" to speed up the processing of claims.

The innovation now reduces the waiting period on partial pay, travel pay, dislocation allowances and similar claims to a few minutes, Capt. Robert Hoffman, finance officer, announced. Claims in form of voucher payments made by check formerly took one or two days. Hours are set at 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily.

Disbursements during March totaled more than $2 million, with $17,000 of this amount in cash.
